VOL. LXXXII—No. 63 CITY OF KINGSTON, N. Y., MONDAY EVENING, JANUARY 5, 1953. PRICE FIVE CENTS

Dewey to Request $1,600,000 to Aid State Correction

Would Convert One Prison as Center for Youthful Offenders

Albany, Jan. 5 (AP)—Gov. Dewey will ask the 1953 Legislature for more than $1,600,000 to improve the state's correction system for youthful offenders.

Conversion of Great Meadow Prison in Washington county to a center for rehibilitation of young criminals considered too tough for reformatories is the major proposal of the program.

The Governor will open the 176th regular session of the Legislature on Wednesday with a 9,000-word message on the details of his 1953 legislative aims.

Dewey's message will deal with plans for reforms in the judiciary, a sweeping program to promote highway safety, proposals for curbing crime and corruption, and a summary of the state's financial and business condition.

The Governor also will jab at the administration of Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri for failing to draw up a concrete plan for improving New York city's troubled finances.

Is Result of Study

Dewey's program for changes in the state's correction system stems from a 28-month study of state laws and services affecting young offenders. The survey and recommendations were made by Whitman Knapp of New York city, an aide of Dewey when the Governor was a racket-busting prosecutor in Manhattan.

The proposed conversion of Great Meadow Prison would cost 1½ million dollars. Dewey will say the move is needed to handle male prisoners between 16 and 30 who are thought too hardened for reformatories but who should not be confined with older, long-term convicts in regular prisons.

Other Proposals

Other correction proposals:

1. Passage of an experimental law permitting two or more counties to share the services and costs of a full-time probation officer. Ten counties do not have such regular service now, the Governor will note.

2. Creation at St. Lawrence University in Canton of a permanent, year-round state institute on delinquency and crime, to train personnel for work in correction and reducing delinquency.

Dewey will recommend an appropriation of $100,000 for this project.

The governor will request the Legislature to create a special commission to investigate the state's judicial system, including any corrupt political influence in the selection of judges.

This was learned after Dewey met Saturday with John T. Loughran, chief judge of the Court of Appeals, and the presiding justices of three of the four appellate divisions of State Supreme Court.

Recommended by Jurists

Dewey said each of the four jurists had recommended the special commission, which would study all the state's course. It would be designed to:

1. Improve the structure of the courts.
2. Make justice less expensive.
3. Eliminate congestion of court calendars.
4. Revise the methods of selecting State Supreme Court justices. The governor has said he would urge the lawmakers to approve a constitutional amendment providing for a plan to make Supreme Court posts appointive, with final confirmation of appointees up to the voters.

Dewey also will recommend mandatory automobile liability insurance for all motorists. This plan was criticized by a group of 11 private insurance company executives who met with the governor Saturday.

Afterward, Dewey said the 11 had contended that compulsory insurance would cause rates to become a "political issue."

However, he added that the officals "unanimously favor (the establishment of an) unsatisfied judgment fund by the state."

Under this plan, now in effect in New Jersey, the state would pay off any claims against persons involved in accidents but lacking liability insurance.

The governor said he objected to the plan on the ground it would "make the fellows who carry insurance pay for the benefit of those who don't take out any insurance." But he added that this plan would be "a lot better than nothing."

Rubinstein Wins New Appeals Court Ruling

Washington, Jan. 5 (AP) — Serge Rubinstein, Russian-born financier fighting deportation, today won a fresh court order barring his arrest and detention at Ellis Island.

The U. S. Court of Appeals directed that the order remain in effect pending a decision in U. S. District Court on Rubinstein's application for an injunction against deportation.

An earlier order, issued by the Court of Appeals last Wednesday, had been scheduled to expire at 11 a. m. today.

Just a few minutes before the deadline, Judge Henry W. Edgerton, senior member of a three-judge Court of Appeals panel, announced the decision to extend the order.

Montreal Police Say Data One of Most Important Ever Found; Man Was Known Red

Montreal, Jan. 5 (AP) — Police said today discovery in a roominghouse of a miniature arsenal and documents containing information on Communist activities may prove "one of the most important caches of subversive data found in Montreal."

The cache was discovered Saturday as police made a routine check on the death of Constantini Stathapoulos, 60-year-old native of Greece, in a dingy roominghouse. Police said he also was known as Costa Poulos and had been dead several days, apparently from natural causes.

Note-books containing names and addresses of hundreds of persons were found in a suitcase. In addition there were stacks of Communist books, pamphlets, code sheets, a fully-loaded submachine gun and an 18-inch machete. The machine-gun and machete, a curved knife used for clearing jungle undergrowth, were hidden in a pile of newspapers in a trunk.

Atom Spy Team to Die January 14 Unless Stay Granted

New York, Jan. 5 (AP)—An appeals court reserved decision today on whether to delay the execution of atom spies Julius and Ethel Rosenburg to give them time to seek a review in the U. S. Supreme Court.

The motion for the stay of execution was a last-ditch move by defense attorneys to save the pair, now doomed to die in Sing Sing's electric chair at 11 p. m. (EST) on January 14.

The motion urged the court to hold up the electrocution while the convicted pair ask the Supreme Court to review a lower court's decision denying them a new trial.

Under Advisement

The U. S. Court of Appeals took the motion under advisement, pending outcome of a defense conference with Federal Judge Irving R. Kaufman, who passed the death sentence on the spy team.

The defense also plans to ask Kaufman to postpone the execution to permit time to prepare an appeal to President Truman for executive clemency.

The Supreme Court already has passed on the sentence, but the new motion asks a review of the case on new points of law.

Their attorney, Emanuel H. Bloch, said yesterday that U. S. Marshal William A. Carroll fixed the precise day and hour of the scheduled execution. Previously their trip to the death chair had been set for the week of Jan. 11 by Federal Judge Irving R. Kaufman, who presided at the trial.

Bloch said he was given the information Saturday when he took the Rosenbergs' sons, Michael, 9, and Robert, 5, to the prison for a visit with their parents.

Subways, Other Lines Absorb Heavy Loads Without Difficulty at Rush Hour

New Try Today

Mediation Session Is Scheduled Again to Settle Dispute

New York, Jan. 5 (AP) — The first full impact of a five-day old strike tieing up 3,500 privately owned buses hit New York today. It threw a heavy load on subways and city-owned bus lines during the morning rush hour but they absorbed it without great difficulty.

It was a case of "standing room only" on lines that were operating, but standing was nothing new to New York's commuters. There were just more standees than usual.

The strike against the city's eight privately operated bus lines for a 40-hour work week and wage improvements began on the stroke of New Year's. Because of the long holiday weekend, its full force was not felt until today.

A staggering of school hours helped lessen the rush-hour burden. High schools, except those on Staten Island, did not begin classes until 10 a. m. Junior high school pupils who ordinarily ride subways were permitted to be late to classes.

Taxis did a booming business, particularly to and from subway stations.

The struck lines carry an average of 3,500,000 passengers a day, but this did not mean that an additional load of this scale was thrown on the subways. Most passengers normally used the subways, anyhow, riding the buses simply to reach the nearest subway station.

Service Called Normal

Many reached the subways today by cabs or joining in car pools.

Col. Sidney H. Bingham, chairman of the City Board of Transportation said at the peak of the rush hour that traffic had increased but that "service was normal."

He declined to estimate how much the load had increased.

Extra policemen were assigned to the subway stations. They were posted at various levels of the underground networks to guard against overcrowding.

Loud speakers were installed at major subway stations to instruct passengers and subway employes alike.

Parking lots near outlying subway stations were crowded, indicating a number of commuters from the far reaches of Queens and Westchester had turned to the family car to get to the underground lines.

Impy's Proposal Vetoed

A mediation session was scheduled at city hall today in another effort to try to find a solution to the transit dispute.

A mass meeting of members of the CIO Transport Workers Union (TWU) yesterday turned down Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri's proposal for settling the dispute.

Allan S. Haywood, executive vice president of the CIO, told the meeting that the mayor had a duty to call a conference to speed negotiation of the strike issues.

The mayor, taking note of this remark, arranged the series of meetings today between representatives of the TWU and struck firms.

Impellitteri said in a statement

Statehood For Hawaii Seen Likely

Senator Makes Remark After Meeting With Eisenhower—to Offer Bill

Early Place on Senate Calendar Is Hoped by Senators

New York, Jan. 5 (AP)—Sen. William F. Knowland (R-Calif) said after a conference with President-Elect Eisenhower today that he has every reason to believe that Hawaii will get statehood "at a very early date."

Knowland, new chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, told newsmen he did not feel at liberty to discuss what Eisenhower had to say about Hawaii statehood.

"But I have every reason to believe," he added, "that Hawaii will get statehood at a very early date."

Legislation to give the territory statehood will be introduced in the new Congress in a few days, Knowland said. Previous bills to grant statehood to Hawaii and Alaska have been sidetracked in Congress.

Knowland was accompanied to Eisenhower's Commodore Hotel headquarters by GOP Senators Hugh Butler of Nebraska, Guy Cordon of Oregon, and Arthur V. Watkins of Utah.

Will Be Chairman

Butler will be chairman of the Senate interior and insular affairs committee, which handles statehood legislation. Cordon and Watkins are members of the committee.

Butler previously has been opposed to statehood for Hawaii, but recently came out in favor of it after a visit to the territory.

The Republican platform called for granting statehood to Hawaii immediately.

Knowland said he and his three colleagues are "all very much interested in statehood for Hawaii and hope it will have an early place" on the Senate calendar.

In reply to questions, Knowland said statehood for Alaska was not discussed at today's session.

Says Case Stronger

He added that in his opinion the case for Hawaiian statehood "is much stronger" than that for Alaska.

He said such things as the length of time Hawaii has been a territory, and the size of its population, give it priority over Alaska.

Hawaii, which had a population of 499,794 in the 1950 census, became a territory in 1900. Alaska, with a 1950 population of 128,643, has been a territory since 1912.

In the last session of Congress, the Senate took up an Alaska statehood bill, with the intention of following it with action on a bill to make Hawaii a state.

However, proponents of the

Senate, House Will Act Formally to Elect Eisenhower to Presidency

Washington, Jan. 5 (AP)—Members of the new Republican Congress concerned themselves principally today with committee assignments while waiting for tomorrow's ceremony which will formally elect Dwight D. Eisenhower president.

The Senate and the House, which convened and organized on Saturday, will meet jointly tomorrow to tabulate the electoral votes and officially declare Eisenhower and Richard M. Nixon the next president and vice president of the U. S. The meeting will be held in the House chamber.

Except for the likelihood of a Senate rules fight, the outcome of which was pretty much a foregone conclusion, and the receipt of several messages from the expiring Truman administration, the new 83rd Congress will then mostly mark time until Eisenhower is inaugurated two weeks from tomorrow.

Two Messages Due

Two presidential messages are due later in the week, one transmitting President Truman's budget for the fiscal year starting July 1 and the other outlining his views on the State of the Union.

The State of the Union message is expected Wednesday. The budget message is due Friday. Neither will be delivered personally by the President. A third message, an economic report, may reach Congress early next week.

Congress probably won't pay much heed to any of the three, waiting instead for Eisenhower's recommendations.

Sen. Bridges (R-NH) said yesterday he expects Eisenhower, shortly after being inaugurated, to address a joint Senate-House session and present his own State of the Union message.

"I think," Bridges added on a CBS television program, "that it will differ from Truman's."

Will Call for Spending

Bridges said he thinks the Truman budget, which informed sources have said will probably call for the spending of nearly 80 billion dollars in the year starting July 1, will be trimmed by the GOP.

But he added that if the Korean

Mediators Fail To Reach Peace

Picketing, However, Is Less Along Waterfront —Plan Rejected

New York, Jan. 5 (AP)—Federal mediators failed early today to bring about a settlement in a strike of AFL dock specialists, but their efforts brought some relaxation of picketing tactics which had threatened a major east coast shipping tieup.

The mediators, after an eight-hour marathon session which started yesterday, said the union agreed to go back to work pending arbitration of the wage and contract dispute but that the employers rejected arbitration.

Involved are three small locals —weighers, samplers and scalesmen — of the AFL International Longshoremen's Association. The employers are represented by the American Weighmasters Association.

Statement Issued

Union officials, after the mediation session broke up, issued a statement of their own saying they would work for any businessman who could use their services without going through their employers. The strikers referred to their employers as "middlemen."

The ILA leaders asked the businessmen pay the same rates their employers normally charged

Former Woodstock Resident Gives Connections in Story

Nathaniel Weyl, former Woodstock resident, and, according to the Associated Press, a confessed former Communist, said today Alger Hiss was a member of the Communist party in 1933 in a unit composed of various government officials.

The AP in a report from Washington said Weyl said he himself was a member of the unit and that it included a number of government officials in the early depression years.

Lived in Woodstock

Weyl told the AP that he had lived in Woodstock until he was graduated from college. He was a Communist member for five years, he said, and has been a government economist. He served overseas with the American army during World War 2, and since leaving the Communist party he has held several government posts.

He detailed his Communist connections in a copyrighted interview published in U. S. News and World Report, a weekly news magazine.

Weyl said of the 1933 Communist unit in government:

"It was a unit consisting entirely of men who were expected to have promising careers in the government, organized completely independently of the rest of the Washington Communists, and set up on a basis of the strictest secrecy."

Says They Knew Reason

While there was nothing illegal then about government officials being Communists, Weyl said

1952 Yule Mails Heaviest Handled By Local Office

The 1952 volume of Christmas mail was the highest ever handled in the city, Postmaster William R. Kraft said today, but 1950 still holds the record in year-around business.

The last Christmas rush brought more than 1,000,000 cancellations for an all-time record, and the volume of mail throughout December 1952 was record high.

Last year's postage total was $455,282, that of 1951 was $453,808, and that in the record year of 1950 was $460,000.

Rush More Gradual

The last Christmas rush was more gradual than in other years, Kraft said, and, because mailing started earlier, the handling of mail was less of a daily burden on department personnel.

"The rush began early and tapered off, and there wasn't a night when we weren't fully cleared up," he said.

Ronald W. Lemanowicz of Philadelphia, a wounded veteran of Korean fighting, truly never had it so good. Maid Says Dorothy Smith 'Glad' She Stabbed Husband

Tokyo, Jan. 5 (AP)—A Japanese maid testified today that Dorothy Krueger Smith brandished a kitchen knife over her dying husband and cried:

"I'm so glad I did it!"

Mrs. Smith, daughter of retired Gen. Walter Krueger of World War II fame, is being tried by a U. S. army court martial on a charge of murdering Col. Aubrey Smith in their Tokyo home the night of Oct. 3.

The maid, Shikgeko Tani, 28, testified she wrested a foot-long hunting knife from Mrs. Smith and hid it in a downstairs living room. She said Smith was stabbed with the hunting knife.

Miss Tani, speaking Japanese, told the nine-member American court:

She ran back to the Smiths' bedroom and found Mrs. Smith holding a small kitchen knife over the bleeding colonel in his bed.

Mrs. Smith had the knife in her right hand and the colonel was holding Mrs. Smith's right wrist.

Mrs. Smith wept frequently at today's opening session. Twice she broke down in wracking sobs. She is 40 and the mother of two.

She almost collapsed when she caught a glimpse of a grotesque, after-death photograph of the colonel which the prosecution offered in evidence. At that time she sobbed:

"Oh, no!—It couldn't be, they wouldn't do that! Oh, help!"

Prime Minister Reports 'Distress' Over Trade Tariffs, Says U.S. Fails Atomic Sharring

Says Unity Gained

Free Nations Are Joined Against Aggression, Is His View

New York, Jan. 5 (AP)—Winston Churchill said today that resisting communism in Korea has "done more to improve the chances of world peace than anything else."

The British prime minister, arriving here for talks with President-elect Eisenhower, said the danger of World War 3 "has receded during the last year."

He told a jam-packed news conference aboard the Queen Mary that the Korean war means "that Soviet aggression has been resolutely and fully confronted."

"That has been the greatest event of the past five years," he said.

Opposes Extension

The 78-year-old British leader said his country was against any "definite extension" of the Korean war.

He expressed distress with American trade tariffs, and said the United States had failed to fully share its atomic information with Great Britain.

Churchill declined to indicate what subjects his talks with Eisenhower will cover. The meeting has been labelled an "informal" one, but British government spokesmen have said it may touch on a wide range of international questions.

Churchill told the newsmen that prospects for peace this year "certainly are not less encouraging than they were in 1952."

To a newsman who wanted to know whether the danger of world war had subsided, the prime minister replied quickly:

"Leave out the word subsided for the word receded."

Churchill, making his 12th visit to the United States, looked jaunty in a black outfit and yachting cap.

'Must Hold Position'

Concerning the Korean War, the prime minister said, "we must go on and hold our position—this doesn't mean there will be no improvement in the situation."

Asked whether Britain opposed any moves to extend the conflict, Churchill said:

"I think it would be a great pity for the United Nations armies—or the United States armies—to go wandering about all over this vast China—or to make any definite extension of the war."

He said there are "worse things than a stalemate", such as that which prevails in Korea. "There's a checkmate," he said.

Churchill said Korea has brought "consolidation of the chances for world peace" by uniting the free nations against aggression and by sparking a western military build-up.

'Real Centers of Gravity'

But he said Korea must not divert the free nations from the "real centers of gravity," which he said he believed is "along the frontiers of the Iron Curtain in Europe."

Churchill said he had not heard the details of a reported plan by Gen. Douglas MacArthur for ending the Korean war. MacArthur announced in a speech last month that a "clear and definite solution" to the conflict existed. The General later conferred with Eisenhower.

Asked about economic relations between Great Britain and the United States, Churchill said:

"Our views are very simple. We don't want to live on you. We want to earn our own living * * * but if you shut the door and won't take anything that we want to make, it is hard to see how the unsatisfactory situation can be avoided or how we can find our real strength. That's what we mean by trade, not aid."

Refers to Tariffs

His remarks referred to United States tariffs which make the import of some British products unfeasible.

More than 200 reporters and photographers crowded into the Queen Mary's veranda grill for the news conference. Churchill sat

New York, Jan. 5 (AP)—Sen. William F. Knowland (R-Calif) said after a conference with President-Elect Eisenhower today that he has every reason to believe that Hawaii will get statehood "at a very early date."

Knowland, new chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, told newsmen he did not feel at liberty to discuss what Eisenhower had to say about Hawaii statehood.

"But I have every reason to believe," he added, "that Hawaii will get statehood at a very early date."

Legislation to give the territory statehood will be introduced in the new Congress in a few days, Knowland said. Previous bills to grant statehood to Hawaii and Alaska have been sidetracked in Congress.

Knowland was accompanied to Eisenhower's Commodore Hotel headquarters by GOP Senators Hugh Butler of Nebraska, Guy Cordon of Oregon, and Arthur V. Watkins of Utah.

Will Be Chairman

Butler will be chairman of the Senate interior and insular affairs committee, which handles statehood legislation. Cordon and Watkins are members of the committee.

Butler previously has been opposed to statehood for Hawaii, but recently came out in favor of it after a visit to the territory.

The Republican platform called for granting statehood to Hawaii immediately.

Knowland said he and his three colleagues are "all very much interested in statehood for Hawaii and hope it will have an early place" on the Senate calendar.

In reply to questions, Knowland said statehood for Alaska was not discussed at today's session.

Says Case Stronger

He added that in his opinion the case for Hawaiian statehood "is much stronger" than that for Alaska.

He said such things as the length of time Hawaii has been a territory, and the size of its population, give it priority over Alaska.

Hawaii, which had a population of 499,794 in the 1950 census, became a territory in 1900. Alaska, with a 1950 population of 128,643, has been a territory since 1912.

In the last session of Congress, the Senate took up an Alaska statehood bill, with the intention of following it with action on a bill to make Hawaii a state.

However, proponents of the

Senate, House Will Act Formally to Elect Eisenhower to Presidency

Washington, Jan. 5 (AP)—Members of the new Republican Congress concerned themselves principally today with committee assignments while waiting for tomorrow's ceremony which will formally elect Dwight D. Eisenhower president.

The Senate and the House, which convened and organized on Saturday, will meet jointly tomorrow to tabulate the electoral votes and officially declare Eisenhower and Richard M. Nixon the next president and vice president of the U. S. The meeting will be held in the House chamber.

Except for the likelihood of a Senate rules fight, the outcome of which was pretty much a foregone conclusion, and the receipt of several messages from the expiring Truman administration, the new 83rd Congress will then mostly mark time until Eisenhower is inaugurated two weeks from tomorrow.

Two Messages Due

Two presidential messages are due later in the week, one transmitting President Truman's budget for the fiscal year starting July 1 and the other outlining his views on the State of the Union.

The State of the Union message is expected Wednesday. The budget message is due Friday. Neither will be delivered personally by the President. A third message, an economic report, may reach Congress early next week.

Congress probably won't pay much heed to any of the three, waiting instead for Eisenhower's recommendations.

Sen. Bridges (R-NH) said yesterday he expects Eisenhower, shortly after being inaugurated, to address a joint Senate-House session and present his own State of the Union message.

"I think," Bridges added on a CBS television program, "that it will differ from Truman's."

Will Call for Spending

Bridges said he thinks the Truman budget, which informed sources have said will probably call for the spending of nearly 80 billion dollars in the year starting July 1, will be trimmed by the GOP.

But he added that if the Korean

Mediators Fail To Reach Peace

Picketing, However, Is Less Along Waterfront —Plan Rejected

New York, Jan. 5 (AP)—Federal mediators failed early today to bring about a settlement in a strike of AFL dock specialists, but their efforts brought some relaxation of picketing tactics which had threatened a major east coast shipping tieup.

The mediators, after an eight-hour marathon session which started yesterday, said the union agreed to go back to work pending arbitration of the wage and contract dispute but that the employers rejected arbitration.

Involved are three small locals —weighers, samplers and scalesmen — of the AFL International Longshoremen's Association. The employers are represented by the American Weighmasters Association.

Statement Issued

Union officials, after the mediation session broke up, issued a statement of their own saying they would work for any businessman who could use their services without going through their employers. The strikers referred to their employers as "middlemen."

The ILA leaders asked the businessmen pay the same rates their employers normally charged

Former Woodstock Resident Gives Connections in Story

Nathaniel Weyl, former Woodstock resident, and, according to the Associated Press, a confessed former Communist, said today Alger Hiss was a member of the Communist party in 1933 in a unit composed of various government officials.

The AP in a report from Washington said Weyl said he himself was a member of the unit and that it included a number of government officials in the early depression years.

Lived in Woodstock

Weyl told the AP that he had lived in Woodstock until he was graduated from college. He was a Communist member for five years, he said, and has been a government economist. He served overseas with the American army during World War 2, and since leaving the Communist party he has held several government posts.

He detailed his Communist connections in a copyrighted interview published in U. S. News and World Report, a weekly news magazine.

Weyl said of the 1933 Communist unit in government:

"It was a unit consisting entirely of men who were expected to have promising careers in the government, organized completely independently of the rest of the Washington Communists, and set up on a basis of the strictest secrecy."

Says They Knew Reason

While there was nothing illegal then about government officials being Communists, Weyl said

1952 Yule Mails Heaviest Handled By Local Office

The 1952 volume of Christmas mail was the highest ever handled in the city, Postmaster William R. Kraft said today, but 1950 still holds the record in year-around business.

The last Christmas rush brought more than 1,000,000 cancellations for an all-time record, and the volume of mail throughout December 1952 was record high.

Last year's postage total was $455,282, that of 1951 was $453,808, and that in the record year of 1950 was $460,000.

Rush More Gradual

The last Christmas rush was more gradual than in other years, Kraft said, and, because mailing started earlier, the handling of mail was less of a daily burden on department personnel.

"The rush began early and tapered off, and there wasn't a night when we weren't fully cleared up," he said.

Prime Minister Reports 'Distress' Over Trade Tariffs, Says U.S. Fails Atomic Sharring

Says Unity Gained

Free Nations Are Joined Against Aggression, Is His View

New York, Jan. 5 (AP)—Winston Churchill said today that resisting communism in Korea has "done more to improve the chances of world peace than anything else."

The British prime minister, arriving here for talks with President-elect Eisenhower, said the danger of World War 3 "has receded during the last year."

He told a jam-packed news conference aboard the Queen Mary that the Korean war means "that Soviet aggression has been resolutely and fully confronted."

"That has been the greatest event of the past five years," he said.

Opposes Extension

The 78-year-old British leader said his country was against any "definite extension" of the Korean war.

He expressed distress with American trade tariffs, and said the United States had failed to fully share its atomic information with Great Britain.

Churchill declined to indicate what subjects his talks with Eisenhower will cover. The meeting has been labelled an "informal" one, but British government spokesmen have said it may touch on a wide range of international questions.

Churchill told the newsmen that prospects for peace this year "certainly are not less encouraging than they were in 1952."

To a newsman who wanted to know whether the danger of world war had subsided, the prime minister replied quickly:

"Leave out the word subsided for the word receded."

Churchill, making his 12th visit to the United States, looked jaunty in a black outfit and yachting cap.

'Must Hold Position'

Concerning the Korean War, the prime minister said, "we must go on and hold our position—this doesn't mean there will be no improvement in the situation."

Asked whether Britain opposed any moves to extend the conflict, Churchill said:

"I think it would be a great pity for the United Nations armies—or the United States armies—to go wandering about all over this vast China—or to make any definite extension of the war."

He said there are "worse things than a stalemate", such as that which prevails in Korea. "There's a checkmate," he said.

Churchill said Korea has brought "consolidation of the chances for world peace" by uniting the free nations against aggression and by sparking a western military build-up.

'Real Centers of Gravity'

But he said Korea must not divert the free nations from the "real centers of gravity," which he said he believed is "along the frontiers of the Iron Curtain in Europe."

Churchill said he had not heard the details of a reported plan by Gen. Douglas MacArthur for ending the Korean war. MacArthur announced in a speech last month that a "clear and definite solution" to the conflict existed. The General later conferred with Eisenhower.

Asked about economic relations between Great Britain and the United States, Churchill said:

"Our views are very simple. We don't want to live on you. We want to earn our own living * * * but if you shut the door and won't take anything that we want to make, it is hard to see how the unsatisfactory situation can be avoided or how we can find our real strength. That's what we mean by trade, not aid."

Refers to Tariffs

His remarks referred to United States tariffs which make the import of some British products unfeasible.

Maid Says Dorothy Smith 'Glad' She Stabbed Husband

Tokyo, Jan. 5 (AP)—A Japanese maid testified today that Dorothy Krueger Smith brandished a kitchen knife over her dying husband and cried:

"I'm so glad I did it!"

Mrs. Smith, daughter of retired Gen. Walter Krueger of World War II fame, is being tried by a U. S. army court martial on a charge of murdering Col. Aubrey Smith in their Tokyo home the night of Oct. 3.

The maid, Shikgeko Tani, 28, testified she wrested a foot-long hunting knife from Mrs. Smith and hid it in a downstairs living room. She said Smith was stabbed with the hunting knife.

Miss Tani, speaking Japanese, told the nine-member American court:

She ran back to the Smiths' bedroom and found Mrs. Smith holding a small kitchen knife over the bleeding colonel in his bed.

Mrs. Smith had the knife in her right hand and the colonel was holding Mrs. Smith's right wrist.

Mrs. Smith wept frequently at today's opening session. Twice she broke down in wracking sobs. She is 40 and the mother of two.

She almost collapsed when she caught a glimpse of a grotesque, after-death photograph of the colonel which the prosecution offered in evidence. At that time she sobbed:

"Oh, no!—It couldn't be, they wouldn't do that! Oh, help!"

Traffic Deaths Reach New High For Two Holidays

(By The Associated Press)

American motorists wrote a bloody record of death on highway and street in two successive weekends of the Christmas-New Year holidays.

As the number of persons killed in traffic acidents in the past four days mounted to 391, Ned H. Dearborn, president of the National Safety Council, declared, "this is a disgraceful way to start the new year."

The previous record for a four-day New Year weekend (6 p. m. Wednesday until midnight Sunday local time), was 375 fatalities, set only last year.

Belated reports might swell the total to the 410 the Safety Council estimated in advance of the New Year weekend.

Acidental deaths of various kinds numbered 122 and 56 were burned to death to raise the total for the 102-hour period to 569. Last year's total was 611.

Broke Old Record

Only the week before an all-time record for highway fatalities during a four-day Christmas weekend was established at 556. It, too, broke a year old record by one. The Christmas weekend accident fatalities of all kinds numbered 744.

During the first 11 months of 1952, an average of 102 persons died every 24 hours as the result of traffic accidents. These included subsequent deaths of injured persons. Holiday totals tabulated by the Associated Press include only those who died within the 102-hour period in accidents within that period.

The deaths by state (traffic, fires, miscellaneous) include Connecticut 1-0-2; New Jersey 8-1-8; New York 24-4-12; and Pennsylvania 22-7-1.

Burroughs Society Counts Local Birds

For the third successive year the John Burroughs Natural History Society of Ulster county, together with over 450 other bird-watching groups scattered over the United States, has made a count of local birds seen on one day during Christmas week.

On December 27 the local society covered assigned areas and listed all birds seen therein between dawn and dusk. Dr. A. M. Cragin led a group in Ponckhockie and Kingston Point. Daniel Smiley, Jr., conducted one at Lake Mohonk, Dr. Robert Pyle of New Paltz College covered his district and Fred Hough headed a group including Kripplebush, Lomontville and Brown Station.

Count Made Annually

The annual Christmas bird count, sponsored by the National Audubon Society, has been actively undertaken for a half century and in recent years has been participated in by over 5,000 persons. The total number of birds counted runs into millions the country over.

A few birds known to be in the area at this season were not observed that day and accordingly are missing from the list.

Total number of species seen, 34; number of individual birds seen, 1038.

Notable observations were: Several large flocks of robins totalling 155 birds. The next most abundant bird was the tree sparrow, a valuable weed-seed eater which spends winters here regularly but summers in the far north. None of the winter grosbeaks were seen but a surprise were nine bluebirds lingering in the New Paltz area.

The following species of birds were observed: Chickadee, downy woodpecker, hairy woodpecker, white-breasted nuthatch, pheasant, blue jay, crow, tree sparrow, song sparrow, English sparrow, white-throated sparrow, junco, goldfinch, purple finch, ruffed grouse, brown creeper, kingfisher, mourning dove, starling, herring gull, cardinal, sparrow hawk, red-tailed hawk, golden-crowned kinglet, bluebird, flicker, robin, purple grackle, cedar waxwing, tufted titmouse, hermit thrush, pine siskin, winter wren and black duck.

Call Action 'Unfair'

New York, Jan. 5 (AP)—A recommendation for dismissal of seven city teachers on the ground they refused to answer school officials' questions about Communist party ties has been described as "unfair, arbitrary and discriminatory" by their attorneys. The lawyers planned today to file a 26-page statement with the Board of Education, which they said intended to act on the recommendation at a special meeting Thursday. The attorneys' statement was made public last night by the Teachers Union (ind.), which was outsted from the CIO on charges its parent union was Communist dominated. Arthur Levitt, Board of Education member who presided at departmental trials of the accused, recommended their dismissal last Dec. 3.

On the far western front, almost two days of no contact was ended by sharp patrol clashes.

Chamber of Commerce members have already returned 179 envelopes containing ballots for the election of seven directors. Emil G. Boessneck, chairman of the special election committee, today requested that those who have not done so should vote for the nominees of their choice and return the ballots at once. The ballots were sent out last week and will be counted Jan. 14.

Seven directors will be elected for a term of three years to serve with the 14 remaining in office. The board of directors, including those now being elected, will meet Jan. 20, to elect the officers for 1953. Lawrence J. MacAvery, who is completing two terms as president of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce, will no longer be on the board. His term expires along with six others and under the provisions of the by-laws cannot be re-elected after serving a full term of three years.

Request Is Rejected

Washington, Jan. 5 (AP)—The Supreme Court today rejected a request for a quick ruling on validity of the 80-day injunction provision of the Taft-Hartley Act. The CIO United Steelworkers Union had asked the tribunal to accept for immediate review the Dec. 29 decision by U. S. District Judge John Knight in Buffalo upholding the disputed section of the law. Knight granted the government an 80-day injunction against a strike by the union at the American Locomotive Company plant in Dunkirk, N. Y. The case represented the first direct test of the injunction provision.

Gains and losses spread out over a range of around a point. Minus signs were scarce.

Trading was quite brisk with trading pace around the two million mark.

Right at the start U. S. Steel hit the tape with a block of 4,000 shares at a higher price, and Bethlehem opened on 2,500 shares and Jones & Laughlin on 3,000 shares. The initial forward push of the steel section was spent before the lunch hour.

Railroads as a group were higher but the tendency wasn't unanimous. Also ahead were utilities with American Telephone in heavy demand at times. It opened on a block of 4,300 shares up ⅜ at 160⅝.

Battenfeld Is Named Grand Jury Foreman

Henry Battenfeld of Hurley was named foreman of the grand jury and George Reitmeir of Olive was named assistant foreman by Justice Kenneth MacAffer today when the grand jury was organized for the January term of Supreme court.

On the call of the trial jurors 14 were excused and an extra panel of 24 jurors was summoned in open court for attendance at the opening of court Tuesday, January 6, at 10 a. m.

Court Reserves

Rev. Dr. Daniel A. Poling issued a statement today charging the case of condemned atom spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg "is being exploited by typical Communist trickery to destroy faith in our American institutions."

Dr. Poling, editor of the Christian Herald, said he issued the statement in behalf of "six representatives of three major religious groups of the United States. He said it came from Charles E. Wilson, industrialist and former president of the General Electric Co.; Samuel J. Rosenman, former New York Supreme Court justice and former counsel to Presidents Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry S. Truman; Clarence E. Manion, professor of law and former dean of the College of Law of Notre Dame University; the Rev. Joseph N. Moody of Cathedral (Catholic) College; Rabbi William F. Rosenblum, of Temple Israel, and Dr. Poling.

Stated Publicly

The statement said all responsible organizations concerned with protecting civil liberties have stated publicly that neither racial nor religious prejudice has been involved in the Rosenberg prosecution.

"Those who join in organized campaigns for clemency in this case have knowingly or unwittingly given assistance to Communist propaganda," the statement said.

"Appeals in regard to clemency should be directed to the Rosenbergs themselves. They have revealed no regret for the harm which they have done our nation, nor any desire to assist the Department of Justice. They have failed to take steps that might warrant clemency."

May Need Little Aid

Bonn, Germany, Jan. 5 (AP)—Because of its spectacular economic recovery, West Germany may need little if any direct American dollar aid this year, U. S. sources said today. This is good news for President-elect Dwight Eisenhower's planners who are surveying the continuance of America's foreign aid program. An exception is made for Russian-surrounded West Berlin, which has not kept pace with western recovery and which will require U. S. financial aid indefinitely.

Kenny to Testify

Newark, N. J., Jan. 5 (AP)—Mayor John V. Kenny of Jersey City today told Superior Court he definitely will testify tomorrow before the New Jersey Law Enforcement Council. Kenny was sworn and took the stand at the request of Richard J. Congleton, counsel for the enforcement group. Asked by his lawyer, T. James Tumulty, if he intended to appear, the mayor replied: "Oh, definitely. Definitely."

Lewis Wants Full Labor Law Repeal

New York, Jan. 5 (AP)—John L. Lewis, United Mine Workers Union president, today turned aside questions about amending the Taft-Hartley Act and declared, "I'm for outright repeal."

"The act is a pestilence and a scourge," Lewis told reporters on his arrival aboard the liner Argentina from a South American labor conference.

He said the designation of Martin P. Durkin, AFL Plumbers' Union chief, as secretary of labor in the Eisenhower cabinet should be confirmed by the Senate.

Reminded that Sen. Robert A. Taft, (R.-Ohio) had described the appointment as "incredible," Lewis remarked:

"Taft is, of course, against any bona fide representative of labor serving in the cabinet."

Lewis was accompanied by his daughter, Kathryn. He had attended the Rio De Janeiro biennial conference of the World Federation of Free Trade Unions.

Upholds Bus Strike

He had only a brief comment about the current CIO Transport Workers Union strike against eight private bus companies in New York city.

"I don't think it ever does labor any harm to go on striking for better conditions," he said. "I don't think it does the public any harm."

Lewis dismissed reports that he might retire with a curt, "I wasn't aware of it."

He said he had no plans to confer with President-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower, and indicated he would go to Washington late today or tomorrow.

Traffic Deaths Reach New High For Two Holidays

(By The Associated Press)

American motorists wrote a bloody record of death on highway and street in two successive weekends of the Christmas-New Year holidays.

As the number of persons killed in traffic acidents in the past four days mounted to 391, Ned H. Dearborn, president of the National Safety Council, declared, "this is a disgraceful way to start the new year."

The previous record for a four-day New Year weekend (6 p. m. Wednesday until midnight Sunday local time), was 375 fatalities, set only last year.

Belated reports might swell the total to the 410 the Safety Council estimated in advance of the New Year weekend.

Acidental deaths of various kinds numbered 122 and 56 were burned to death to raise the total for the 102-hour period to 569. Last year's total was 611.

Broke Old Record

Only the week before an all-time record for highway fatalities during a four-day Christmas weekend was established at 556. It, too, broke a year old record by one. The Christmas weekend accident fatalities of all kinds numbered 744.

During the first 11 months of 1952, an average of 102 persons died every 24 hours as the result of traffic accidents. These included subsequent deaths of injured persons. Holiday totals tabulated by the Associated Press include only those who died within the 102-hour period in accidents within that period.

The deaths by state (traffic, fires, miscellaneous) include Connecticut 1-0-2; New Jersey 8-1-8; New York 24-4-12; and Pennsylvania 22-7-1.

Burroughs Society Counts Local Birds

For the third successive year the John Burroughs Natural History Society of Ulster county, together with over 450 other bird-watching groups scattered over the United States, has made a count of local birds seen on one day during Christmas week.

On December 27 the local society covered assigned areas and listed all birds seen therein between dawn and dusk. Dr. A. M. Cragin led a group in Ponckhockie and Kingston Point. Daniel Smiley, Jr., conducted one at Lake Mohonk, Dr. Robert Pyle of New Paltz College covered his district and Fred Hough headed a group including Kripplebush, Lomontville and Brown Station.

Count Made Annually

The annual Christmas bird count, sponsored by the National Audubon Society, has been actively undertaken for a half century and in recent years has been participated in by over 5,000 persons. The total number of birds counted runs into millions the country over.

A few birds known to be in the area at this season were not observed that day and accordingly are missing from the list.

Total number of species seen, 34; number of individual birds seen, 1038.

Notable observations were: Several large flocks of robins totalling 155 birds. The next most abundant bird was the tree sparrow, a valuable weed-seed eater which spends winters here regularly but summers in the far north. None of the winter grosbeaks were seen but a surprise were nine bluebirds lingering in the New Paltz area.

The following species of birds were observed: Chickadee, downy woodpecker, hairy woodpecker, white-breasted nuthatch, pheasant, blue jay, crow, tree sparrow, song sparrow, English sparrow, white-throated sparrow, junco, goldfinch, purple finch, ruffed grouse, brown creeper, kingfisher, mourning dove, starling, herring gull, cardinal, sparrow hawk, red-tailed hawk, golden-crowned kinglet, bluebird, flicker, robin, purple grackle, cedar waxwing, tufted titmouse, hermit thrush, pine siskin, winter wren and black duck.

Call Action 'Unfair'

New York, Jan. 5 (AP)—A recommendation for dismissal of seven city teachers on the ground they refused to answer school officials' questions about Communist party ties has been described as "unfair, arbitrary and discriminatory" by their attorneys. The lawyers planned today to file a 26-page statement with the Board of Education, which they said intended to act on the recommendation at a special meeting Thursday. The attorneys' statement was made public last night by the Teachers Union (ind.), which was outsted from the CIO on charges its parent union was Communist dominated. Arthur Levitt, Board of Education member who presided at departmental trials of the accused, recommended their dismissal last Dec. 3.

Late Bulletin

New York, Jan. 5 (AP)—A conditional stay of execution was offered today to atom spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg if they apply for executive clemency from President Truman.

Federal udge Irving R. Kaufman, who presided at their trial, said he would grant the stay if they filed with the federal court by Saturday an order stating they will make the application to the President.

Kaufman announced his decision shortly after an Appeals Court decided to reserve decision on whether to delay the scheduled Jan. 14 execution of the man-and-wife spy team to give them time to seek a review of the case in the United States Supreme Court.

Several sharp clashes along the front in below freezing cold were reported last night and early today before the skies clouded.

Associated Press Correspondent Forrest Edwards reported from the central front that Chinese soldiers appeared in no man's land in the night wearing a new black and white spotted camouflage uniform.

In the same area on Sniper Ridge, some 175 padded uniformed Chinese stormed up the slopes of Pinpoint Hill under ear splitting artillery cover. They hit the ridge position in two waves but dropped back after less than an hour—leaving an estimated 35 dead and 20 wounded.

On the far western front, almost two days of no contact was ended by sharp patrol clashes.

C of C Asks Prompt Return of Ballots

Chamber of Commerce members have already returned 179 envelopes containing ballots for the election of seven directors. Emil G. Boessneck, chairman of the special election committee, today requested that those who have not done so should vote for the nominees of their choice and return the ballots at once. The ballots were sent out last week and will be counted Jan. 14.

Seven directors will be elected for a term of three years to serve with the 14 remaining in office. The board of directors, including those now being elected, will meet Jan. 20, to elect the officers for 1953. Lawrence J. MacAvery, who is completing two terms as president of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce, will no longer be on the board. His term expires along with six others and under the provisions of the by-laws cannot be re-elected after serving a full term of three years.

Request Is Rejected

Washington, Jan. 5 (AP)—The Supreme Court today rejected a request for a quick ruling on validity of the 80-day injunction provision of the Taft-Hartley Act. The CIO United Steelworkers Union had asked the tribunal to accept for immediate review the Dec. 29 decision by U. S. District Judge John Knight in Buffalo upholding the disputed section of the law. Knight granted the government an 80-day injunction against a strike by the union at the American Locomotive Company plant in Dunkirk, N. Y. The case represented the first direct test of the injunction provision.

Gains and losses spread out over a range of around a point. Minus signs were scarce.

Trading was quite brisk with trading pace around the two million mark.

Right at the start U. S. Steel hit the tape with a block of 4,000 shares at a higher price, and Bethlehem opened on 2,500 shares and Jones & Laughlin on 3,000 shares. The initial forward push of the steel section was spent before the lunch hour.

Railroads as a group were higher but the tendency wasn't unanimous. Also ahead were utilities with American Telephone in heavy demand at times. It opened on a block of 4,300 shares up ⅜ at 160⅝.

Battenfeld Is Named Grand Jury Foreman

Henry Battenfeld of Hurley was named foreman of the grand jury and George Reitmeir of Olive was named assistant foreman by Justice Kenneth MacAffer today when the grand jury was organized for the January term of Supreme court.

On the call of the trial jurors 14 were excused and an extra panel of 24 jurors was summoned in open court for attendance at the opening of court Tuesday, January 6, at 10 a. m.

Court Reserves

Rev. Dr. Daniel A. Poling issued a statement today charging the case of condemned atom spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg "is being exploited by typical Communist trickery to destroy faith in our American institutions."

Dr. Poling, editor of the Christian Herald, said he issued the statement in behalf of "six representatives of three major religious groups of the United States. He said it came from Charles E. Wilson, industrialist and former president of the General Electric Co.; Samuel J. Rosenman, former New York Supreme Court justice and former counsel to Presidents Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry S. Truman; Clarence E. Manion, professor of law and former dean of the College of Law of Notre Dame University; the Rev. Joseph N. Moody of Cathedral (Catholic) College; Rabbi William F. Rosenblum, of Temple Israel, and Dr. Poling.

Stated Publicly

The statement said all responsible organizations concerned with protecting civil liberties have stated publicly that neither racial nor religious prejudice has been involved in the Rosenberg prosecution.

"Those who join in organized campaigns for clemency in this case have knowingly or unwittingly given assistance to Communist propaganda," the statement said.

"Appeals in regard to clemency should be directed to the Rosenbergs themselves. They have revealed no regret for the harm which they have done our nation, nor any desire to assist the Department of Justice. They have failed to take steps that might warrant clemency."

May Need Little Aid

Bonn, Germany, Jan. 5 (AP)—Because of its spectacular economic recovery, West Germany may need little if any direct American dollar aid this year, U. S. sources said today. This is good news for President-elect Dwight Eisenhower's planners who are surveying the continuance of America's foreign aid program. An exception is made for Russian-surrounded West Berlin, which has not kept pace with western recovery and which will require U. S. financial aid indefinitely.

Kenny to Testify

Newark, N. J., Jan. 5 (AP)—Mayor John V. Kenny of Jersey City today told Superior Court he definitely will testify tomorrow before the New Jersey Law Enforcement Council. Kenny was sworn and took the stand at the request of Richard J. Congleton, counsel for the enforcement group. Asked by his lawyer, T. James Tumulty, if he intended to appear, the mayor replied: "Oh, definitely. Definitely."

Lewis Wants Full Labor Law Repeal

New York, Jan. 5 (AP)—John L. Lewis, United Mine Workers Union president, today turned aside questions about amending the Taft-Hartley Act and declared, "I'm for outright repeal."

"The act is a pestilence and a scourge," Lewis told reporters on his arrival aboard the liner Argentina from a South American labor conference.

He said the designation of Martin P. Durkin, AFL Plumbers' Union chief, as secretary of labor in the Eisenhower cabinet should be confirmed by the Senate.

Reminded that Sen. Robert A. Taft, (R.-Ohio) had described the appointment as "incredible," Lewis remarked:

"Taft is, of course, against any bona fide representative of labor serving in the cabinet."

Lewis was accompanied by his daughter, Kathryn. He had attended the Rio De Janeiro biennial conference of the World Federation of Free Trade Unions.

Upholds Bus Strike

He had only a brief comment about the current CIO Transport Workers Union strike against eight private bus companies in New York city.

"I don't think it ever does labor any harm to go on striking for better conditions," he said. "I don't think it does the public any harm."

Lewis dismissed reports that he might retire with a curt, "I wasn't aware of it."

He said he had no plans to confer with President-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower, and indicated he would go to Washington late today or tomorrow.

Firemen said the couple told them to forget about it because they had decided to carry the TV set outside and let it burn.

I Love My Mom

For the second time in two years, death in the form of respiratory polic has been put to flight by Mrs. Alice Jones of Oswego, Ore., with the aid of the March of Dimes. The young mother of three children had to undergo a throat operation while still dependent upon an iron lung to sustain breathing. Her six-year-old son Steven greets her as she returns from hospital still in an iron lung loaned by the local March of Dimes.

With the head of the Plumbers' union established as Secretary of Labor, Arch Nearbrite hopes Mr. Durkin won't have to have as many assistants and helpers standing around to hand him tools as the union rules require to repair a busted pipe.

Po'keepsie Woman, Future In-Law, Killed in Crash

Albany, Jan. 5 (AP)—A Poughkeepsie woman and the young man who was engaged to marry her daughter were killed yesterday when an automobile skidded on ice, crashed through the guard rail of a viaduct and plunged 150 feet into a creek.

The daughter and her father were injured.

Police identified the dead as Mrs. Josephine Beni, 46, and Karl Wilhelm, 21, also of Poughkeepsie.

Savino Beni, 47, was reported in critical condition at a hospital but his 20-year-old daughter, Marian, was listed as fair. She jumped from the car before it went off the viaduct.

Wilhelm was a student at Albany College of Pharmacy. Miss Beni attends Albany State College for Teachers. They were returning to Albany after Christmas vacation when the accident occurred on Route 9W, just south of the city line.

A witness said that Miss Beni was seated in the rear of the car and jumped just before it went through the guard rail.

Her father was thrown from the car when it hit the ground and was found on the Normanskill creek bank. Wilhelm also was thrown out and his body was found in the water. The woman still was inside the car.

Conference of Farm Dealers Is Announced

A conference of regional seed and fertilizer dealers will be held at 1:30 p. m. Friday, Jan. 9, at Talbot's Restaurant in Pleasant Valley on Route 44 east of Poughkeepsie.

The conference will include dealers from all counties in the Lower Hudson valley area. Robert D. Guzewich, associate Ulster county farm agent, said that Cornell specialists would describe newer varieties of corn, oats, winter wheat and forage crops, fertilizer recommendations on all forage crops and pastures, insect control on hay and pasture fields and newer preservatives for hay and silage.

He urged all dealers to attend the conference in order to obtain "first-hand information and to be of service to farmers whom they are serving." Dinner at 6 p. m. will be followed by an evening session.

Three Questioned in Death

Bari, Italy, Jan. 5 (AP)—Police questioned three men over the weekend in connection with last Monday's robbery-death of 70-year-old Francesco Convertino, a New York state farmer. Authorities announced, however, that they have released a niece of Convertino who also had been held for questioning. Police said they believed Convertino, who returned recently to his native Alrerobello near here, choked to death on his false teeth when someone tried to strangle him. His money was missing when his body was found. He reportedly had some $5,000.

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

By HAL BOYLE

New York, (AP)—This is the season when the average man would trade a future year in a future heaven just to see the first robin of spring fly into his backyard right now.

It is the winter of discontent. The last carol has been sung, the Christmas tree is burnt, and the bright baubles that decorated it now hide in the darkness of the closet.

There is a false cheeriness to the mailman's "hello" as he stamps up the walk. He knows there is nothing but bad news in all those envelopes he brings—the envelopes with windows.

The pages on the calendar say the year is fresh and new. But the calendar is a liar. The calendar of the spirit says the year is old and tired and shabby—just about the way the average man feels himself.

All His Woes Return

The party-giving is over. Now comes the letdown. He feels the heavy hand of time upon him. The personal woes he shrugged away during the holidays perch again on his shoulder and whisper into his ear: "Looky we're back. Did you miss us?"

Everyone he knows seems to be packing for a gay vacation in Florida, in Arizona, in California, in Cuba. But no luxurious sea cruise for him. Nope. Just the long voyage to work on the 7:15 bus—and the long voyage home on the 5:45 bus. That is, if the buses are running at all.

What's wrong with everybody? The boss is grouchy. The wife says an angel in Paradise couldn't run a kitchenette apartment on the money you give her, let alone try to keep up a six-room house. The children's noses are running, the family pooch is fighting the family cat, the canary has worms. Your brother-in-law is out of work again and needs help.

And the Dog Bites Him

A fellow in the city looks out on streets getting grimier every day. He puts on a white shirt in the morning and by noon the soot has turned it gray. The button falls off the collar, too.

Snow locks the suburbanite's garage, but even if it didn't the car wouldn't start anyway. Frozen solid. How come it turned so cold overnight so sudden? Does a man have to think of everything?

The fuel oil truck drives up and leaves a bill for $56.12. Underneath the snow the crabgrass is secretly plotting to ruin the lawn. The suburbanite plods moodily through the drifts toward the railroad station, freezing his ears on the way. A neighbor's dog sneaks behind him and nips him in the heels. The train is an hour late and so crowded he has to stand up.

Jokers Stir Things Up

An acquaintance says, "I got a big Christmas bonus and a $15 buck a week raise. What did you get? Oh, come now. Really? Nothing. How come—you slippin' on the job? Ha, ha, ha. What's the matter? Can't you take a joke?"

Everything's wrong. You put on your shoes, and the string snaps. You go out to lunch, and gravy drips on your new necktie. You sit down in the evening to read, and the light bulb burns out. Not a spare one in the house either.

What happened to the sun? If it isn't snowing, it's sleeting. You open the front door and an icicle falls on your head. And the bitter wind . . . it blows . . . and blows and blows . . . keeping you awake at night with its howling. What does it expect you to do—open a window so it can come in and get warm?

Nothing's Right

Yes, all's wrong, naught's right during this brief blue symphony of the year. But down south right now a faithful little friend is buttoning up his orange waistcoat and saying to his Missus, "hurry up, dear, we'll have to start soon if we want to get our pictures in the papers up north. Nobody will pay any attention to us if we don't get there first."

Hurry, robin, hurry. Once you're here we know everything will be all right again. Our faith rides on your feathers.

Victim Gets Double Dose

Washington (AP)—A 40-year-old man was jumped on by three men recently and relieved of his wallet. Later on the same evening, the victim decided to return to the scene to retrieve his hat which was lost in the scuffle. The same three men jumped him again in the same place. This time he told police he fought off the persistent robbers.

Breaks Arm in Fall

Millbrook, N. Y., Jan. 5 (AP)—Actor Robert Montgomery suffered a broken left arm yesterday when he slipped on ice and fell while visiting friends here. He was treated at a Poughkeepsie, N. Y., hospital.

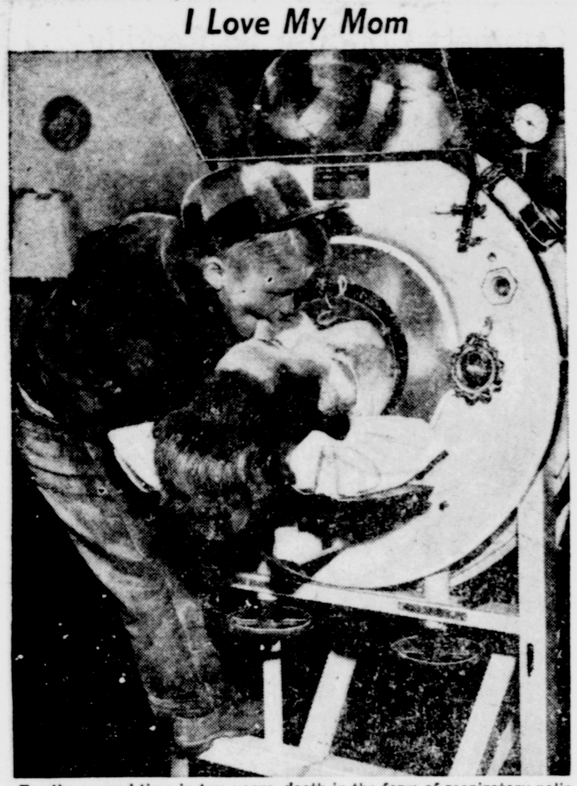
I Love My Mom



For the second time in two years, death in the form of respiratory polic has been put to flight by Mrs. Alice Jones of Oswego, Ore., with the aid of the March of Dimes. The young mother of three children had to undergo a throat operation while still dependent upon an iron lung to sustain breathing. Her six-year-old son Steven greets her as she returns from hospital still in an iron lung loaned by the local March of Dimes.

Po'keepsie Woman, Future In-Law, Killed in Crash

Albany, Jan. 5 (AP)—A Poughkeepsie woman and the young man who was engaged to marry her daughter were killed yesterday when an automobile skidded on ice, crashed through the guard rail of a viaduct and plunged 150 feet into a creek.

The daughter and her father were injured.

Police identified the dead as Mrs. Josephine Beni, 46, and Karl Wilhelm, 21, also of Poughkeepsie.

Savino Beni, 47, was reported in critical condition at a hospital but his 20-year-old daughter, Marian, was listed as fair. She jumped from the car before it went off the viaduct.

Wilhelm was a student at Albany College of Pharmacy. Miss Beni attends Albany State College for Teachers. They were returning to Albany after Christmas vacation when the accident occurred on Route 9W, just south of the city line.

A witness said that Miss Beni was seated in the rear of the car and jumped just before it went through the guard rail.

Her father was thrown from the car when it hit the ground and was found on the Normanskill creek bank. Wilhelm also was thrown out and his body was found in the water. The woman still was inside the car.

Conference of Farm Dealers Is Announced

A conference of regional seed and fertilizer dealers will be held at 1:30 p. m. Friday, Jan. 9, at Talbot's Restaurant in Pleasant Valley on Route 44 east of Poughkeepsie.

The conference will include dealers from all counties in the Lower Hudson valley area. Robert D. Guzewich, associate Ulster county farm agent, said that Cornell specialists would describe newer varieties of corn, oats, winter wheat and forage crops, fertilizer recommendations on all forage crops and pastures, insect control on hay and pasture fields and newer preservatives for hay and silage.

He urged all dealers to attend the conference in order to obtain "first-hand information and to be of service to farmers whom they are serving." Dinner at 6 p. m. will be followed by an evening session.

Three Questioned in Death

Bari, Italy, Jan. 5 (AP)—Police questioned three men over the weekend in connection with last Monday's robbery-death of 70-year-old Francesco Convertino, a New York state farmer. Authorities announced, however, that they have released a niece of Convertino who also had been held for questioning. Police said they believed Convertino, who returned recently to his native Alrerobello near here, choked to death on his false teeth when someone tried to strangle him. His money was missing when his body was found. He reportedly had some $5,000.

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

By HAL BOYLE

New York, (AP)—This is the season when the average man would trade a future year in a future heaven just to see the first robin of spring fly into his backyard right now.

It is the winter of discontent. The last carol has been sung, the Christmas tree is burnt, and the bright baubles that decorated it now hide in the darkness of the closet.

There is a false cheeriness to the mailman's "hello" as he stamps up the walk. He knows there is nothing but bad news in all those envelopes he brings—the envelopes with windows.

The pages on the calendar say the year is fresh and new. But the calendar is a liar. The calendar of the spirit says the year is old and tired and shabby—just about the way the average man feels himself.

All His Woes Return

The party-giving is over. Now comes the letdown. He feels the heavy hand of time upon him. The personal woes he shrugged away during the holidays perch again on his shoulder and whisper into his ear: "Looky we're back. Did you miss us?"

Everyone he knows seems to be packing for a gay vacation in Florida, in Arizona, in California, in Cuba. But no luxurious sea cruise for him. Nope. Just the long voyage to work on the 7:15 bus—and the long voyage home on the 5:45 bus. That is, if the buses are running at all.

What's wrong with everybody? The boss is grouchy. The wife says an angel in Paradise couldn't run a kitchenette apartment on the money you give her, let alone try to keep up a six-room house. The children's noses are running, the family pooch is fighting the family cat, the canary has worms. Your brother-in-law is out of work again and needs help.

And the Dog Bites Him

A fellow in the city looks out on streets getting grimier every day. He puts on a white shirt in the morning and by noon the soot has turned it gray. The button falls off the collar, too.

Snow locks the suburbanite's garage, but even if it didn't the car wouldn't start anyway. Frozen solid. How come it turned so cold overnight so sudden? Does a man have to think of everything?

The fuel oil truck drives up and leaves a bill for $56.12. Underneath the snow the crabgrass is secretly plotting to ruin the lawn. The suburbanite plods moodily through the drifts toward the railroad station, freezing his ears on the way. A neighbor's dog sneaks behind him and nips him in the heels. The train is an hour late and so crowded he has to stand up.

Jokers Stir Things Up

An acquaintance says, "I got a big Christmas bonus and a $15 buck a week raise. What did you get? Oh, come now. Really? Nothing. How come—you slippin' on the job? Ha, ha, ha. What's the matter? Can't you take a joke?"

Everything's wrong. You put on your shoes, and the string snaps. You go out to lunch, and gravy drips on your new necktie. You sit down in the evening to read, and the light bulb burns out. Not a spare one in the house either.

What happened to the sun? If it isn't snowing, it's sleeting. You open the front door and an icicle falls on your head. And the bitter wind . . . it blows . . . and blows and blows . . . keeping you awake at night with its howling. What does it expect you to do—open a window so it can come in and get warm?

Nothing's Right

Yes, all's wrong, naught's right during this brief blue symphony of the year. But down south right now a faithful little friend is buttoning up his orange waistcoat and saying to his Missus, "hurry up, dear, we'll have to start soon if we want to get our pictures in the papers up north. Nobody will pay any attention to us if we don't get there first."

Hurry, robin, hurry. Once you're here we know everything will be all right again. Our faith rides on your feathers.

Victim Gets Double Dose

Washington (AP)—A 40-year-old man was jumped on by three men recently and relieved of his wallet. Later on the same evening, the victim decided to return to the scene to retrieve his hat which was lost in the scuffle. The same three men jumped him again in the same place. This time he told police he fought off the persistent robbers.

Breaks Arm in Fall

Millbrook, N. Y., Jan. 5 (AP)—Actor Robert Montgomery suffered a broken left arm yesterday when he slipped on ice and fell while visiting friends here. He was treated at a Poughkeepsie, N. Y., hospital.

CONGRESS AND EARLIER RECESS

Leaders of the new Republican Congress voice an earnest hope that the annual sessions on Capitol Hill may be considerably shortened in the years just ahead. Of late, Congress has taken to dragging out its activities interminably.

The goal is commendable. The inefficient use of congressional time is a luxury this country can't afford nowadays. It's too easy to translate delay into danger.

Senator Taft, the likely majority leader of the new Senate, believes that in the even-numbered years when presidential or congressional elections are held, Congress ought to get out of Washington by July 31.

In odd-numbered years, he would shoot for July 4 as a recess date, then have the lawmakers come back around October 1 to begin laying the ground for the following year.

This whole plan contemplates getting the essential appropriations bills out of the way each year before the new fiscal period for government starts July 1. Failure to do that in recent times has been a prime sore point. Government departments have had to skate along for months on temporary resolutions which kept them in funds until Congress finished its money-voting job.

There is no excuse for such delays in the vital appropriation field. They are a mark of sheer neglect of duty. Taft wisely seeks to end this irresponsibility in future Congresses.

His proposal for a recess and subsequent October resumption sounds good. Besides allowing time to outline money needs for the succeeding term, it would permit a cleanup of matters left hanging earlier. Now there is too much tendency to cram hastily drafted legislation through the two houses in the standard last-minute rush.

To facilitate a badly needed speedup, more will be required than just good intentions from Republican leaders. The cooperation of the Eisenhower administration is basic. And Congress may have to streamline some of its rules and procedures. Finally, the lawmakers will have to spend more time making laws and less time investigating.

None of these obstacles ought to be allowed to stand in the way of improved congressional performance. Lawmakers recognize the compulsion of business to modernize, and they shout loudly for government—meaning the Executive branch—to do the same. Their own activities ought not to be exempt from this necessity.

WAIT AND SEE IF IT'S TRUE

They never go back to Pocatello. That was the theme song of a magazine article some years ago. Meaning, simply, that the men and women who come to live in Washington, either as lawmakers or government workers, never want to go back home for good.

Just how serious an epidemic this Potomac fever can be we will shortly see. For never in our history has there been a potential exodus from the capital quite so large as that which could begin January 20.

As everybody knows, the federal establishment has vastly expanded since 1933, when the last great shift occurred in party control of the government. Ultimately, up to 20,000 or 25,000 jobs may be affected in the turnover.

The great majority of these, though by no means all, have been filled by deserving Democrats. Some of the rest may now be occupied by Republicans who knew the right Democrats.

Already there are strong signs that a good share of these folk have the bug for sure, and don't want to go home. If they don't, Washington may be in for one of its biggest population crushes of all time.

Watch closely in the next few months. If you read that the capital is suffering an acute housing shortage, is beset by a rash of newly opened law offices, is deluged by thousands of Democratic applicants for politics-proof civil service jobs, then you'll know it's true. They never go back to Pocatello.

After struggling up two flights of stairs with an armload of Christmas packages we know just how those Swiss mountain climbers felt after their unsuccessful attempt to scale Mount Everest.

'These Days'

THE OIL CARTELS

If the United States Government wishes its citizens to engage in foreign trade, it needs to resolve the conflicts in law and policy which add to the difficulties of Americans abroad. During the Roosevelt Administration, American manufacturers and merchandisers were encouraged by one department of government to enter upon cooperative arrangements and then were brought into court under the Anti-Trust Laws for doing it. Similarly, those American firms which are encouraged to invest abroad, sometimes in the national defense, find themselves in difficulties because they operate under agreements with foreign firms and foreign governments which have the characteristics of cartels and monopolies.

The Federal Trade Commission report to the Senate Committee on Small Business said last August:

"Control over the international oil industry is largely in the hands of seven integrated companies. Outside the United States and the Soviet Union, they control the bulk of production and marketing of oil moving in international commerce."

This gives the impression that American companies could operate on all continents exactly as they are required to operate in the United States. As a matter of fact, none of this type of business concerns the Small Business Committee because the gathering, refining, cracking and distribution of oil, in its many forms, involves what throughout the world is called heavy industry and in this country is called Big Business. Nobody can engage in it who is not prepared to find and invest hundreds of millions of dollars.

Senator John Sparkman said:

"The Senate Small Business Committee has a profound and abiding interest in the effect of monopolistic and restrictive activities on the survival of independent competitive enterprise. Such activities are not always regional or even national in scope. When in exceptional circumstances the fate of competitive free enterprise at home is inextricably linked with the pattern of busines operations abroad, this committee will not hesitate to extend its investigations so as to determine the exact nature of these operations. . . ."

This is nonsense, because no foreign government will permit its citizens to produce evidence on this subject before an American Congressional committee, particularly as oil is an instrument of the national defense and, from the standpoint of both orthodox and unorthodox means of warfare, is as important as the atom bomb.

In some instances, governments own the oil companies, as in the case of Iran, the principal ownership being vested in the British government while the properties have been confiscated by the Iranian government. Some risky and difficult-to-handle enterprises, because of the diplomacy of the region, are held jointly by companies of various nationalities. Sometimes, as in the Arabian American Oil Company, a group of American companies join together to manage a situation into which we enter as much for military reasons as for business, and which requires non-competitive action if it is to be done at all.

This subject requires an overall policy. Companies cannot make enormous investments in an area, often at the instigation of our government, only to find several years later that they are being accused of violating the Anti-Trust Laws, which cannot rationally be applied outside the United States.

Oil is one of the most difficult fields of business because it is the most political. As long as success in war depends upon access to and possession of oil, governments will not view this commodity as they do wool or even wheat. In modern warfare there is no substitute for oil. Airplanes, tanks, automobiles, gun carriages, railroads, submarines and most naval vessels run on oil.

As oil in large quantities is often found in countries which are politically backward, they gain power through its possession. Such countries as Iran, Iraq, Saudi Arabia and tiny Kuwait, to say nothing of Mexico and Venezuela, gain their political and economic importance in their bargaining power in the world—through the possession of oil. This will in time also be true of those countries which possess uranium and other fissionable ores.

This must be faced as a fact. Three great powers vie with each other for the possession of oil—the United States, Great Britain and Soviet Russia. The United States and Great Britain have, in some instances, joined forces. Wherever they fail, Soviet Russia will try to step in.

This is too precarious a situation for doctrinaire staffs of the Federal Trade Commission or even for demagogues.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

MUSIC AND MENTAL HEALTH

We have all heard the expression "Music hath charms to soothe the savage breast" and most of us have noted the relaxation in ourselves when we hear certain types of music. It will, therefore, come as no surprise to learn that music is proving helpful to many mentally ill patients.

In "Military Surgeon," Washington, D. C., Dr. E. Podolsky states that physicians who care for the mentally ill have come to realize that music is one of the best medications for the mind. Dr. Podolsky cites, among other observations, "the favorable effect of orchestra music on 1,300 patients, afflicted with every grade of mental derangement, assembled during meals in the dining room. Under its influence, these patients are quiet, self-controlled and observe as complete decorum as could be found in the dining room of any large hotel."

What are the usual, or general, effects of music on mental patients? "Music heightens depressed feelings and calms over-active patients. It can change a dissatisfied and destructive mood to a satisfied and constructive one."

Another point about music is that where the mentally ill patient plays an instrument apart from or with the orchestra, the music provides an emotional outlet for repressed feelings. It is the repression of feelings, however apparently necessary at times, that causes mental conflicts. In playing the instrument, the patient is encouraged to express himself and this raises his morale.

"By playing instruments, the patients practiced coordination of nerve and muscle. They derived a sense of accomplishment from playing and showed signs of relaxation, achieving release from their anxieties, emotional conflicts and mental confusion."

Small rhythm bands provide enjoyable activity for depressed patients. "Individual musical treatment in the form of private instruction in voice, piano, instrumental music, and composition, is often helpful in awakening old interests and instilling self-confidence."

To the mentally ill patient who likes music, treatment by music will naturally be more interesting and helpful than ordinary occupational treatment, such as interesting himself in some form of occupation or work.

Neurosis

There are so many conflicts and hazards in the life of today that it is small wonder so many are retreating from their responsibilities under the cloak of neurosis—believing you have an ailment when none actually exists. Read Dr. Barton's interesting booklet entitled "Neurosis" which may be obtained by sending 25 cents, to cover cost of handling and mailing, to The Bell Syndicate, in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, Post Office Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Why French Cabinets Collapse So Readily

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington — New Attorney General Herbert Brownell is going to specialize in picking top-notch U. S. attorneys throughout the country. He knows that corruption begins at the grass roots, and that the U. S. attorney's office is the place where it can easily originate.

One of the best men provisionally picked by Brownell is Warren Olney, III, as U. S. attorney in northern California. Olney is former counsel of the California Crime Commission, is close to Governor Warren, and has done much to focus attention on California corruption.

In southern California, however, Brownell has under consideration for U. S. attorney an honest, well-meaning gentleman named Ebel Younger, husband of one of the most prominent Republican ladies in California.

Some years ago, Younger worked for the FBI and was the FBI's secret agent inside the longshoremen's union and the office of Harry Bridges. Though Younger's identity was supposed to be known only to J. Edgar Hoover and a few top G Men, he made the fatal error of leaving a carbon copy of a report to the FBI in a wastebasket in one of Bridges' hotel rooms.

It was labeled: "To the FBI from Special Agent Ebel Younger."

Naturally, Bridges' associates picked it up, and Younger was booted out of the Bridges organization.

The FBI, mortified, put Younger to work filing reports.

Independent Party Reports

A group of senators favoring abolition of the Senate filibuster gathered in the office of Senator Lehman of New York—most of them Democrats. Present also were Irving Ives of New York and Jim Duff of Pennsylvania, Republicans, and Wayne Morse of Oregon, independent.

After considerable discussion it was decided that the caucus should not agree on anything definite, and that they should be particularly careful in what they told the press.

"We must say that we discussed the problem carefully," remarked one senator, "and be careful not to antagonize our own party caucuses."

They found, however, that this was not unanimous.

"My party, Mr. Chairman," piped up Senator Morse of Oregon, "has already caucused and is ready to report.

"As the Independent party," continued Morse, who is the sole Independent in the Senate, "we have decided that we should have a showdown. The 83rd Senate cannot be obligated by the rules of procedure of the 1st Senate. We should make our own rules for the 83rd Senate just as the 1st Senate made its rules for itself.

"Regardless of what the Republicans and Democrats do," Morse concluded, "the Independent party will always be ahead of you."

Tragic Training

The order hasn't yet gone out, but the air force will crack down on training flights as a result of the tragic, pre-Christmas crash that killed 87 at Moses Lake, Wash.

Inside fact is that the doomed Globemaster was on a training mission, though its 105 passengers were hitchhiking servicemen on their way home for Christmas.

This has raised the question of whether air force planes on training missions should be allowed to carry passengers. In the case of the fatal Globemaster, the pilot was supposed to be tested taking off with a heavy load. The plane was loaded to near capacity, though it should have been able to carry as many as 150 persons safely.

In the future, however, the air force will order that sandbags be used instead of human cargo.

Tokyo Commander

A group of congressmen recently inspecting the Korean war front sat down with Gen. Mark Clark loaded for bear.

Texas Congressmen O. C. Fisher and Frank Wilson had their axes particularly sharpened for Clark because of the battle of the Rapido river and the fact that a Texas National Guard Division—the 36th—was badly mauled during the siege of Cassino.

Before the conference ended, however, the congressmen were 100 per cent sold on the top commander in the Far East.

"You go on to Korea," Clark told them in Tokyo, "and when you get back, let me know what you think. I'll answer any questions."

Clark did answer any and all questions, convinced the congressman the war was in competent hands.

As the conference closed, Clark turned to Congressman Carroll Kearns of Pennsylvania.

"Does your district take in Conneautville?" he asked. "My father was appointed to West Point from there in 1886, and my grandfather lived and died there. In fact, the family is buried there."

Kearns said that his district did take in Conneautville and that he lived not far from there.

"Well, if you ever go by the old cemetery on the hill," said General Clark, "I would appreciate it if you would let me know how my family's graves are kept up."

Kearns promised to do so, and was as good as his word. He took a special trip to Conneautville, found the Clark tombstones knocked over, adjusted them, planted some new shrubbery around them, took pictures and sent them to Clark.

Pentagon Politics

General Eisenhower may not know it, but a backstage wire-pulling match is going on inside the Pentagon over who should step into General Van Fleet's boots as 8th Army commander in Korea.

Gen. J. Lawton Collins, army chief of staff, is trying to plant his deputy, Gen. Maxwell Taylor, in the job. However, Eisenhower has hinted privately that he would like to see his own former deputy, Gen. Al. Gruenther, replace Van Fleet.

Taylor's supporters have quietly undertaken to convince Eisenhower that Gruenther is so urgently needed in Europe that he can't be spared for Korea. At the same time, Collins has quietly sent Taylor to Korea on an "inspection trip," so he'll be all ready to take over from Van Fleet the moment Ike gives the word.

Whoever gets the job will probably end up as army chief of staff.

Lion Deaths Start Probe

Bombay (AP) — Indian wildlife experts wonder what happened to the 10 dead lions recently found in the nearby Gir Forest sanctuary, last haven of the Asiatic lion. Villagers discovered the dead beasts scattered through the jungles with no marks of wounds. Officials plan an investigation to determine whether some disease was responsible. As part of an official policy aimed at safeguarding the lions, numbering about 200, from extinction, the government took emergency measures to provide water for the lions when the forest area suffered a drouth four months ago.

Truman's Board Secrecy in Reviewing Vincent Case Open for Criticism

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Jan. 5—President Truman has suddenly kicked overboard the usual procedure for detecting and punishing persons in the government employ concerning whom there is reasonable doubt as to their loyalty.

In deference to the views of Secretary of State Acheson, who refuses to believe that anybody in the foreign service of the State Department could possibly be influenced by Communist intrigue, Mr. Truman has publicly repudiated what is known as the President's Loyalty Review Board. This is his own tribunal, set up to weigh the evidence collected from the Federal Bureau of Investigation and other sources.

But just as the late President Roosevelt publicly repudiated the Supreme Court of the United States because of its 5-to-4 decisions and announced himself in favor of appointing more judges to overcome that majority, so Mr. Truman now scraps the Loyalty Review Board's 3-to-2 decision in the case of John Carter Vincent and yields to a recommendation from Mr. Acheson that another loyalty board of five be appointed to see if they can't come up with some other decision.

This is a strange technique with which to confront the people of the United States in the face of the crusade against Communists and Communist influence in the Department of State. But what is worse—by the device of suppression on orders from the President—the American people now have no way of even knowing the names of the members of the panel of the President's Loyalty Review Board who ruled on the Vincent case or to learn the facts given in testimony before this board or to read the analysis made by the Loyalty Review Board's own examiner who studied all the evidence and made a ninety-page report. These are ordered to be kept secret by Mr. Truman's edict, but Secretary Acheson, on the other hand, is privileged to give his one-sided analysis of the testimony and to discuss it in public with the excuse that it is merely replying to the brief summary supplied in the formal letter of transmittal from Hiram Bingham, chairman of the President's Loyalty Review Board. Actually as Mr. Acheson in his public statement concedes, he has had access to all the documents and hence his comments deal with matters not revealed in Mr. Bingham's letter, which thus far is the only document in the case the public has been authorized to see.

In order to understand the peculiar sequence of events in the Vincent case, it is necessary to know that the Department of State has its own loyalty and security board, which cleared Mr. Vincent. Then the case came before the President's Loyalty Review Board in what is known as a "post-audit." This system was established in order that a department would not be the final judge of the loyalty of its own personnel, since most of the departmental boards are made up of officials who have known the accused or have a special interest in upholding the good name of their department.

But now, after the President's Loyalty Review Board has rendered its verdict, the head of the State Department goes to the President and persuades him to allow another State Department-appointed board to advise him whether or not to accede to the verdict of the President's Loyalty Review Board, which recommended that Vincent be fired. There will, therefore, be no further opportunity for the President's own Loyalty Review Board to review the new proceeding.

Mr. Truman owes it to all employes of the government who have been declared ineligible heretofore to give them a similar chance to have their case tried by new tribunals set up by the partment from which they have been removed as a consequence of a recommendation by the President's Loyalty Review Board.

The new board or panel to consider the Vincent case consists of eminent men, but they are requested to give their advice to Mr. Acheson, whose term as secretary of state expires in about two weeks. Can any panel give thorough examination to this case in that brief time? The documents are estimated to be so voluminous that they weigh about sixty pounds. There are fifteen volumes comprising 5,000 pages of sworn testimony before the Senate Internal Security Committee, where Vincent was interrogated by Sens. McCarran and Ferguson. Will Mr. Acheson tell the public whether he himself read that record?

The examiner who sifted the evidence and analyzed it spent two months on that task, and his own report is a lengthy one. It took the panel of five of the President's Loyalty Review Board a month to decide the case. In the face of this time element, does it mean that the new board will give cursory treatment to all the evidence and report in a few days? Will it sit day and night for two weeks to reach a conclusion? Will it have time to re-examine any of the witnesses? Will it continue to function past Jan. 20 and does this mean Mr. Acheson will have passed the buck to the new administration?

The inference is inescapable that neither President Truman nor Secretary Acheson dared to affirm a decision which meant that a high foreign service officer was influential in steering American policy in China the wrong way—a policy which helped to bring about Communist domination of China and a Korean war in which the American casualties alone now have reached about 130,000.

When the new President and Secretary of State come into office it will be incumbent upon them to make public the examiner's report, if nothing else. Mr. Acheson has chosen on his own initiative to analyze the testimony and to give a one-sided impression. The American people are entitled to know both sides. It is as important to Mr. Vincent as it is to the United States government and to future procedures in all cases of alleged disloyalty.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

In principle, a "strike" is a stoppage of work by two or more individuals to obtain an advantage for themselves. They may not deserve that advantage. They may defiantly declare that they are seeking to gain an unfair advantage. Yet our people, in our present unfortunate habit of thought, will still agree that they have a right to strike. Some educated persons sincerely believe that the right to strike is a sacred moral right, but that contention is easily demolished.

Most of the terrible total of strikes of the year 1952 were ordered by boss monopolists of a political force which we carelessly call "labor," for political purposes. The only moral justification of a strike is a desire to redress wrongs in wages or dangerous working conditions. The overwhelming majority of the total of the 1952 strikes lacked moral virtue and therefore no sacred right was involved which some persons might feel bound to respect.

We are always confusing ourselves by picturing mass insurrections as strikes. We forget that the pure strike is simply a concerted, peaceful stoppage of work willingly engaged in by all the individuals concerned.

The contrast between that naive picture and the frightful riots which now constitute the actual reality, shows how far off the beam we have wandered. This confusion was planned by the Roosevelt-CIO forces in the turbulent period up to 1940. Our press, which has an obligation to keep its head and provide wise, brave leadership, even against emotional tumults and intimidation by tax vultures, failed in this great crisis. It is still sadly recreant on the whole.

Pointedly, when the fact was disclosed a few days ago that American soldiers were going through a Valley Forge winter in the New York area, suffering great hardships under canvas because some racket unions would not let the men put up simple prefab huts, what did our press say about that? Did it storm in righteous fury and the rackets? Not at all. The two editorials which came nearest to a voice of courage said "now, boys, this is bad public relations for 'labor.'" They should have said "put up those barracks and shoot any picket who tries to butt in or interfere with deliveries!"

The strike now means picket lines of threatening men and, often, women, too, armed with a variety of dangerous, even deadly, weapons. Even though the strikers do not use these weapons to the full or at all, the fact that they do carry clubs, metal bars and tire-chains and sometimes stick razor blades attached to the wooden staffs to which their picket-signs are fastened, constitutes criminal guilt.

If I say to you, "don't try to cross that sidewalk or I will knock your brains out with this club" I am just as guilty of striking you as though I had actually done so. The assumption is that my threat frightened you so that you surrendered your lawful right to cross that sidewalk. Beyond that sidewalk by failing to cross it, you have lost your job, your earnings, your right to work at lawful toil. I won the situation by resort to a crime.

All mass picket lines are crimi-

CONGRESS AND EARLIER RECESS

Leaders of the new Republican Congress voice an earnest hope that the annual sessions on Capitol Hill may be considerably shortened in the years just ahead. Of late, Congress has taken to dragging out its activities interminably.

The goal is commendable. The inefficient use of congressional time is a luxury this country can't afford nowadays. It's too easy to translate delay into danger.

Senator Taft, the likely majority leader of the new Senate, believes that in the even-numbered years when presidential or congressional elections are held, Congress ought to get out of Washington by July 31.

In odd-numbered years, he would shoot for July 4 as a recess date, then have the lawmakers come back around October 1 to begin laying the ground for the following year.

This whole plan contemplates getting the essential appropriations bills out of the way each year before the new fiscal period for government starts July 1. Failure to do that in recent times has been a prime sore point. Government departments have had to skate along for months on temporary resolutions which kept them in funds until Congress finished its money-voting job.

There is no excuse for such delays in the vital appropriation field. They are a mark of sheer neglect of duty. Taft wisely seeks to end this irresponsibility in future Congresses.

His proposal for a recess and subsequent October resumption sounds good. Besides allowing time to outline money needs for the succeeding term, it would permit a cleanup of matters left hanging earlier. Now there is too much tendency to cram hastily drafted legislation through the two houses in the standard last-minute rush.

To facilitate a badly needed speedup, more will be required than just good intentions from Republican leaders. The cooperation of the Eisenhower administration is basic. And Congress may have to streamline some of its rules and procedures. Finally, the lawmakers will have to spend more time making laws and less time investigating.

None of these obstacles ought to be allowed to stand in the way of improved congressional performance. Lawmakers recognize the compulsion of business to modernize, and they shout loudly for government—meaning the Executive branch—to do the same. Their own activities ought not to be exempt from this necessity.

WAIT AND SEE IF IT'S TRUE

They never go back to Pocatello. That was the theme song of a magazine article some years ago. Meaning, simply, that the men and women who come to live in Washington, either as lawmakers or government workers, never want to go back home for good.

Just how serious an epidemic this Potomac fever can be we will shortly see. For never in our history has there been a potential exodus from the capital quite so large as that which could begin January 20.

As everybody knows, the federal establishment has vastly expanded since 1933, when the last great shift occurred in party control of the government. Ultimately, up to 20,000 or 25,000 jobs may be affected in the turnover.

The great majority of these, though by no means all, have been filled by deserving Democrats. Some of the rest may now be occupied by Republicans who knew the right Democrats.

Already there are strong signs that a good share of these folk have the bug for sure, and don't want to go home. If they don't, Washington may be in for one of its biggest population crushes of all time.

Watch closely in the next few months. If you read that the capital is suffering an acute housing shortage, is beset by a rash of newly opened law offices, is deluged by thousands of Democratic applicants for politics-proof civil service jobs, then you'll know it's true. They never go back to Pocatello.

After struggling up two flights of stairs with an armload of Christmas packages we know just how those Swiss mountain climbers felt after their unsuccessful attempt to scale Mount Everest.

THE OIL CARTELS

If the United States Government wishes its citizens to engage in foreign trade, it needs to resolve the conflicts in law and policy which add to the difficulties of Americans abroad. During the Roosevelt Administration, American manufacturers and merchandisers were encouraged by one department of government to enter upon cooperative arrangements and then were brought into court under the Anti-Trust Laws for doing it. Similarly, those American firms which are encouraged to invest abroad, sometimes in the national defense, find themselves in difficulties because they operate under agreements with foreign firms and foreign governments which have the characteristics of cartels and monopolies.

The Federal Trade Commission report to the Senate Committee on Small Business said last August:

"Control over the international oil industry is largely in the hands of seven integrated companies. Outside the United States and the Soviet Union, they control the bulk of production and marketing of oil moving in international commerce."

This gives the impression that American companies could operate on all continents exactly as they are required to operate in the United States. As a matter of fact, none of this type of business concerns the Small Business Committee because the gathering, refining, cracking and distribution of oil, in its many forms, involves what throughout the world is called heavy industry and in this country is called Big Business. Nobody can engage in it who is not prepared to find and invest hundreds of millions of dollars.

Senator John Sparkman said:

"The Senate Small Business Committee has a profound and abiding interest in the effect of monopolistic and restrictive activities on the survival of independent competitive enterprise. Such activities are not always regional or even national in scope. When in exceptional circumstances the fate of competitive free enterprise at home is inextricably linked with the pattern of busines operations abroad, this committee will not hesitate to extend its investigations so as to determine the exact nature of these operations. . . ."

This is nonsense, because no foreign government will permit its citizens to produce evidence on this subject before an American Congressional committee, particularly as oil is an instrument of the national defense and, from the standpoint of both orthodox and unorthodox means of warfare, is as important as the atom bomb.

In some instances, governments own the oil companies, as in the case of Iran, the principal ownership being vested in the British government while the properties have been confiscated by the Iranian government. Some risky and difficult-to-handle enterprises, because of the diplomacy of the region, are held jointly by companies of various nationalities. Sometimes, as in the Arabian American Oil Company, a group of American companies join together to manage a situation into which we enter as much for military reasons as for business, and which requires non-competitive action if it is to be done at all.

This subject requires an overall policy. Companies cannot make enormous investments in an area, often at the instigation of our government, only to find several years later that they are being accused of violating the Anti-Trust Laws, which cannot rationally be applied outside the United States.

Oil is one of the most difficult fields of business because it is the most political. As long as success in war depends upon access to and possession of oil, governments will not view this commodity as they do wool or even wheat. In modern warfare there is no substitute for oil. Airplanes, tanks, automobiles, gun carriages, railroads, submarines and most naval vessels run on oil.

As oil in large quantities is often found in countries which are politically backward, they gain power through its possession. Such countries as Iran, Iraq, Saudi Arabia and tiny Kuwait, to say nothing of Mexico and Venezuela, gain their political and economic importance in their bargaining power in the world—through the possession of oil. This will in time also be true of those countries which possess uranium and other fissionable ores.

This must be faced as a fact. Three great powers vie with each other for the possession of oil—the United States, Great Britain and Soviet Russia. The United States and Great Britain have, in some instances, joined forces. Wherever they fail, Soviet Russia will try to step in.

This is too precarious a situation for doctrinaire staffs of the Federal Trade Commission or even for demagogues.

MUSIC AND MENTAL HEALTH

We have all heard the expression "Music hath charms to soothe the savage breast" and most of us have noted the relaxation in ourselves when we hear certain types of music. It will, therefore, come as no surprise to learn that music is proving helpful to many mentally ill patients.

In "Military Surgeon," Washington, D. C., Dr. E. Podolsky states that physicians who care for the mentally ill have come to realize that music is one of the best medications for the mind. Dr. Podolsky cites, among other observations, "the favorable effect of orchestra music on 1,300 patients, afflicted with every grade of mental derangement, assembled during meals in the dining room. Under its influence, these patients are quiet, self-controlled and observe as complete decorum as could be found in the dining room of any large hotel."

What are the usual, or general, effects of music on mental patients? "Music heightens depressed feelings and calms over-active patients. It can change a dissatisfied and destructive mood to a satisfied and constructive one."

Another point about music is that where the mentally ill patient plays an instrument apart from or with the orchestra, the music provides an emotional outlet for repressed feelings. It is the repression of feelings, however apparently necessary at times, that causes mental conflicts. In playing the instrument, the patient is encouraged to express himself and this raises his morale.

"By playing instruments, the patients practiced coordination of nerve and muscle. They derived a sense of accomplishment from playing and showed signs of relaxation, achieving release from their anxieties, emotional conflicts and mental confusion."

Small rhythm bands provide enjoyable activity for depressed patients. "Individual musical treatment in the form of private instruction in voice, piano, instrumental music, and composition, is often helpful in awakening old interests and instilling self-confidence."

To the mentally ill patient who likes music, treatment by music will naturally be more interesting and helpful than ordinary occupational treatment, such as interesting himself in some form of occupation or work.

Neurosis

There are so many conflicts and hazards in the life of today that it is small wonder so many are retreating from their responsibilities under the cloak of neurosis—believing you have an ailment when none actually exists. Why French Cabinets Collapse So Readily

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington — New Attorney General Herbert Brownell is going to specialize in picking top-notch U. S. attorneys throughout the country. He knows that corruption begins at the grass roots, and that the U. S. attorney's office is the place where it can easily originate.

One of the best men provisionally picked by Brownell is Warren Olney, III, as U. S. attorney in northern California. Olney is former counsel of the California Crime Commission, is close to Governor Warren, and has done much to focus attention on California corruption.

In southern California, however, Brownell has under consideration for U. S. attorney an honest, well-meaning gentleman named Ebel Younger, husband of one of the most prominent Republican ladies in California.

Some years ago, Younger worked for the FBI and was the FBI's secret agent inside the longshoremen's union and the office of Harry Bridges. Though Younger's identity was supposed to be known only to J. Edgar Hoover and a few top G Men, he made the fatal error of leaving a carbon copy of a report to the FBI in a wastebasket in one of Bridges' hotel rooms.

It was labeled: "To the FBI from Special Agent Ebel Younger."

Naturally, Bridges' associates picked it up, and Younger was booted out of the Bridges organization.

The FBI, mortified, put Younger to work filing reports.

Independent Party Reports

A group of senators favoring abolition of the Senate filibuster gathered in the office of Senator Lehman of New York—most of them Democrats. Present also were Irving Ives of New York and Jim Duff of Pennsylvania, Republicans, and Wayne Morse of Oregon, independent.

After considerable discussion it was decided that the caucus should not agree on anything definite, and that they should be particularly careful in what they told the press.

"We must say that we discussed the problem carefully," remarked one senator, "and be careful not to antagonize our own party caucuses."

They found, however, that this was not unanimous.

"My party, Mr. Chairman," piped up Senator Morse of Oregon, "has already caucused and is ready to report.

"As the Independent party," continued Morse, who is the sole Independent in the Senate, "we have decided that we should have a showdown. The 83rd Senate cannot be obligated by the rules of procedure of the 1st Senate. We should make our own rules for the 83rd Senate just as the 1st Senate made its rules for itself.

"Regardless of what the Republicans and Democrats do," Morse concluded, "the Independent party will always be ahead of you."

Tragic Training

The order hasn't yet gone out, but the air force will crack down on training flights as a result of the tragic, pre-Christmas crash that killed 87 at Moses Lake, Wash.

Inside fact is that the doomed Globemaster was on a training mission, though its 105 passengers were hitchhiking servicemen on their way home for Christmas.

This has raised the question of whether air force planes on training missions should be allowed to carry passengers. In the case of the fatal Globemaster, the pilot was supposed to be tested taking off with a heavy load. The plane was loaded to near capacity, though it should have been able to carry as many as 150 persons safely.

In the future, however, the air force will order that sandbags be used instead of human cargo.

Tokyo Commander

A group of congressmen recently inspecting the Korean war front sat down with Gen. Mark Clark loaded for bear.

Texas Congressmen O. C. Fisher and Frank Wilson had their axes particularly sharpened for Clark because of the battle of the Rapido river and the fact that a Texas National Guard Division—the 36th—was badly mauled during the siege of Cassino.

Before the conference ended, however, the congressmen were 100 per cent sold on the top commander in the Far East.

"You go on to Korea," Clark told them in Tokyo, "and when you get back, let me know what you think. I'll answer any questions."

Clark did answer any and all questions, convinced the congressman the war was in competent hands.

As the conference closed, Clark turned to Congressman Carroll Kearns of Pennsylvania.

"Does your district take in Conneautville?" he asked. "My father was appointed to West Point from there in 1886, and my grandfather lived and died there. In fact, the family is buried there."

Kearns said that his district did take in Conneautville and that he lived not far from there.

"Well, if you ever go by the old cemetery on the hill," said General Clark, "I would appreciate it if you would let me know how my family's graves are kept up."

Kearns promised to do so, and was as good as his word. He took a special trip to Conneautville, found the Clark tombstones knocked over, adjusted them, planted some new shrubbery around them, took pictures and sent them to Clark.

It took the panel of five of the President's Loyalty Review Board a month to decide the case. In the face of this time element, does it mean that the new board will give cursory treatment to all the evidence and report in a few days? Will it sit day and night for two weeks to reach a conclusion? Will it have time to re-examine any of the witnesses? Will it continue to function past Jan. 20 and does this mean Mr. Acheson will have passed the buck to the new administration?

The inference is inescapable that neither President Truman nor Secretary Acheson dared to affirm a decision which meant that a high foreign service officer was influential in steering American policy in China the wrong way—a policy which helped to bring about Communist domination of China and a Korean war in which the American casualties alone now have reached about 130,000.

When the new President and Secretary of State come into office it will be incumbent upon them to make public the examiner's report, if nothing else. Mr. Acheson has chosen on his own initiative to analyze the testimony and to give a one-sided impression. The American people are entitled to know both sides. It is as important to Mr. Vincent as it is to the United States government and to future procedures in all cases of alleged disloyalty.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

In principle, a "strike" is a stoppage of work by two or more individuals to obtain an advantage for themselves. They may not deserve that advantage. They may defiantly declare that they are seeking to gain an unfair advantage. Yet our people, in our present unfortunate habit of thought, will still agree that they have a right to strike. Some educated persons sincerely believe that the right to strike is a sacred moral right, but that contention is easily demolished.

Most of the terrible total of strikes of the year 1952 were ordered by boss monopolists of a political force which we carelessly call "labor," for political purposes. The only moral justification of a strike is a desire to redress wrongs in wages or dangerous working conditions. The overwhelming majority of the total of the 1952 strikes lacked moral virtue and therefore no sacred right was involved which some persons might feel bound to respect.

We are always confusing ourselves by picturing mass insurrections as strikes. We forget that the pure strike is simply a concerted, peaceful stoppage of work willingly engaged in by all the individuals concerned.

The contrast between that naive picture and the frightful riots which now constitute the actual reality, shows how far off the beam we have wandered. This confusion was planned by the Roosevelt-CIO forces in the turbulent period up to 1940. Our press, which has an obligation to keep its head and provide wise, brave leadership, even against emotional tumults and intimidation by tax vultures, failed in this great crisis. It is still sadly recreant on the whole.

Pointedly, when the fact was disclosed a few days ago that American soldiers were going through a Valley Forge winter in the New York area, suffering great hardships under canvas because some racket unions would not let the men put up simple prefab huts, what did our press say about that? Did it storm in righteous fury and the rackets? Not at all. The two editorials which came nearest to a voice of courage said "now, boys, this is bad public relations for 'labor.'" They should have said "put up those barracks and shoot any picket who tries to butt in or interfere with deliveries!"

The strike now means picket lines of threatening men and, often, women, too, armed with a variety of dangerous, even deadly, weapons. Even though the strikers do not use these weapons to the full or at all, the fact that they do carry clubs, metal bars and tire-chains and sometimes stick razor blades attached to the wooden staffs to which their picket-signs are fastened, constitutes criminal guilt.

If I say to you, "don't try to cross that sidewalk or I will knock your brains out with this club" I am just as guilty of striking you as though I had actually done so. The assumption is that my threat frightened you so that you surrendered your lawful right to cross that sidewalk. Beyond that sidewalk by failing to cross it, you have lost your job, your earnings, your right to work at lawful toil. I won the situation by resort to a crime.

All mass picket lines are crimi-

Railroad Workers Form Own Union

Norwich, Jan. 5 (AP)—A group claiming to represent 210 operating employes of the bankrupt Ontario and Western railroad has set up a local of the Independent United Railroad Operating Crafts Union in an effort to break O. & W. workers away from five big railroad brotherhoods.

"The brotherhoods (trainmen, firemen, engineers, switchmen and conductors) have done nothing for us," Frank Champion of Carbondale, Pa., temporary chairman of the new local, told about 20 men at the organization meeting yesterday.

The employes contend they now receive $3.50 to $4 a day less than workers on other railroads, and have not received pay raises promised them in recent years.

First Group in East

The UROC was organized on the Pacific coast two years ago. The O. & W. local is its first in the east.

The men attending yesterday's meeting were from Norwich and Mayfield, and Scranton and Carbondale, Pa. The O. & W. has 475 operating employes.

The group said it would seek to establish itself as the bargaining agent for O. & W. employes by petitioning the National Labor Relations Board for an election.

A proposal of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad to buy the O. & W. now is before the Interstate Commerce Commission. The road runs from Oswego to Weehawken, N. J.

New Haven's offer is opposed by the employes who met yesterday. They maintain it does not provide for payment of the back wages they say are due, or for payment of what they call the standard scale.

Cole Says U. S. Leads

Washington, Jan. 5 (AP)—The United States is well ahead of Russia in the atomic arms race and must stay that way, says the senior House Republican member of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee. Rep. W. Sterling Cole (R.-N. Y.), slated to become either chairman or vice chairman of the group, added in a radio interview (Gannett News Service) yesterday: 1. The military, not the Congress, must decide whether to use atomic weapons in Korea; 2. Each atomic weapon so used is one less in the stockpile to deter any Russian plan for all-out war, and 3. There is unavoidable waste but no evidence of corruption in the atomic program.

Can't See Retirement

Washington, Jan. 5 (AP)—After 40 years in public service, says retiring Vice President Alben Barkley, how can he retire to a private life? Such a man "may not hold office but he will not be private," the 75-year-old Veep told interviewers on CBS-TV's "See It Now" yesterday. His own future, he said, may lay in lecturing, writing, business or law. To Richard Nixon, his successor as Vice President and Senate presiding officer, Barkley counseled: "Learn the rules and master them * * * and take into consideration the idiosyncrasies of senators."

55 Million Income Tax Forms Mailed

The Bureau of Internal Revenue has completed its annual mailing of federal income tax forms—an operation involving approximately 55 million pieces of mail.

Alfred W. Fleming of Buffalo, district commissioner of internal revenue, urged taxpayers who have received their forms at this early date to prepare and file their income tax returns well before the March 15 deadline.

The Bureau's huge mail operation was simplified this year, Fleming pointed out, by the adoption of a new "booklet" assembly of the required forms and instruction material. Labor and material savings from the use of the new income tax booklets are expected to amount to about $351,000.

All of the tax forms, schedules and instructions that formerly were manually assembled, folded, and stuffed into business-size envelopes are contained in the new booklets, which were mailed without envelopes, from the Bureau's Processing Branch in Kansas City, Missouri. They were tested in Indiana and Massachusetts during the last filing period, and the results were extremely satisfactory. In adopting this system on a nation-wide scale, Fleming said, the Bureau hopes to make the taxpayer's task easier and also realize substantial savings on the huge operation.

About 42 million persons received the Form 1040 booklets. Farmers and self-employed persons received appropriate additional forms in their booklets. Form 1040A, a single sheet with instructions on the back, was mailed to persons who filed on this form last year.

Monday is bridge lesson day, and as usual I will discuss bidding according to the point-count method so that beginners and average players can see how the experts bid. Just in case you're not familiar with the point-count, here it is: count 4 points for each ace in your hand; 3 for each king; 2 for each queen; 1 for each jack.

There are 10 points in each suit, and 40 points in the entire deck. You and your partner usually need 26 points to make a game; 33 points for a small slam; 37 for a grand slam.

In today's hand South's opening bid of one no-trump shows balanced distribution, stoppers in at least three suits, and a count of 16 to 18 points. North can well afford to raise to three no-trump with a count of 10 points. North knows that the combined count is between 26 and 28 points, which is ample for game but not enough for slam.

Possession of the right count does not necessarily make the game contract for you. It is still necessary to play the cards properly.

In the case of today's hand, South must make the correct play at the first trick. He must play low from dummy and win with the ace of spades in the South hand. South now leads one of the minor suits, and West takes the ace at once.

West continues spades, and South must finesse the jack. For all South can tell, West may be leading from a long suit headed by the queen of spades, in which case the finesse will succeed. If the finesse loses, and if East can continue the suit, the spades will then break 4-3, and the defenders can take at most two spade tricks and two aces.

In this case the spade finesse loses, and the suit is broken 5-2. Declarer is saved, however, by the fact that East cannot continue spades after winning with his queen. No matter which suit East returns, South can easily regain the lead and knock out the other ace while dummy still has a stopper in spades.

Now observe what happens if declarer makes the mistake of playing the jack of spades from the dummy at the first trick. East covers with the queen of spades, and one of South's stoppers is knocked out at once.

Declarer must develop both minor suits in order to make his contract, and therefore goes after one of them at once. West takes the first of his aces and continues spades, thus forcing out declarer's remaining spade stopper. West will regain the lead with his other ace in time to set the contract with the rest of his spades.

As Pegler Sees It

nal insurrections, a term promulgated by the late Roosevelt, himself, when it suited his purpose to condemn a strike that was impeding his course. We were hurrying production of warplanes in a factory at Inglewood, Cal. The Communists of the CIO, who at that time were maintaining a military alliance with Nazi Germany, tried to stop production of planes for Britain. Roosevelt turned out the 15th U. S. Infantry to open holes in the picket lines. He used the term "violent insurrection" and it was quite appropriate. However, that crime called for prosecution and Roosevelt dodged the issue.

In earlier violent insurrections of the very same kind, involving many of the very same CIO Communists, which set government at naught in Michigan and Ohio, Roosevelt was a cheerful patron of the criminals. I called on him for a private audience arranged by Hugh Johnson one afternoon at the height of the terror in Michigan. With that awful grin which came to represent the very countenance of corruption to so many of us, Roosevelt said there was no mob violence in Michigan. Not at all. There were only multiple disorderly conduct, multiple trespass and multiple assault.

The only legitimate purpose of a picket is to advertise a grievance. The right to picket has been put forth only as an extension of the freedom of expression. No attempt ever has been made to justify mob violence or mass picketing on the ground that strikers have a right to prevent strike-breakers or non-strikers from going to work. Excuses have been offered, but not just reasons having moral value.

There is nothing wrong about strike-breaking. It is a pure expression of competition. Those who condemn competition among workers, whether they know it or not, are advocating the sort of regimentation and faceless sameness that were imposed on labor by Mussolini, Hitler and Lenin-Trotsky. Many strikes have been waged through the criminal intimidation of picket lines, solely to compel unwilling workers to join unions. That purpose was best served in the greatest volume, however, by a national law named for an evil, dishonest old man named Robert F. Wagner, who came from Germany as a child and never quite grew up to American principles. Formerly, employers had used a coercive and degrading individual contract with workers forbidding them to join unions. The law and public sentiment disapproved it.

Wagner now introduced by law precisely the same yellow-dog principle of union membership. Wagner forbade men to stand aloof from unions, so now the Labor Relations Board dragooned them into union rolls, by millions, most of them without the pretense of a regard for their personality and their human rights. Wagner substituted one brutal force for another the boss-goon of the union for the foreman-goon of the employer.

Altogether, thanks in part to Wagner but most to Roosevelt, the American worker has lost precious liberties which are simply unknown to most of the present working generation. They were born into this condition or grew up into it from unconscious childhood. The union worker does not realize that his union makes him a predatory enemy preying on the rest of the people. The rest of the people feel in a vague way that they are being preyed upon, but they don't personalize their anger against the union members. They blame "the government."

Hong Kong (AP)—The Chinese Communist government is making over the nation's educational system, with emphasis on subjects dealing with heavy industry, reports the New China News Agency. Chinese colleges and college teachers were subjected to an intensive course in "ideological remoulding" in 1952, to get them on the Communist path. Teachers not pliable or adjustable to the Red ideas were weeded out. The Communists converted most institutions into technical schools and also built more technical schools.

You must receive them too; those greetings, post cards and missives from people who are away somewhere and assume that all the world is following their movements with absorbing interest. I mean the ones that are signed with an initial, "Wanderer," "Old Pal" or "Guess Who."

Then some weeks later you meet a guy on the street, one you hadn't missed from town for a minute, and he says, "Did you get my card?"

You think fast but not good enough and make a stab. "Oh yes," you say. "That was a swell fish. What kind of rig did you catch it on?"

"What do you mean fish?" he says; and you know that you've picked the wrong card. So you shift your tactics, chuckle a bit of self reproof, and try again.

"Of course, of course," you say, "how foolish; that was Joe Doakes who caught the big fish. How did you like it out in Arizona?"

Now you're in deep; 'way over your head. Your disgusted friend clarifies things. He says, "I sent you a picture of the Baltimore hospital, where we've been for weeks after our smashup, me and Joe Doakes. I ain't been to Arizona, nor Joe ain't been fishing."

BY THEN you remember the picture of the hospital only too well, and the one-sentence message, "Just a sprained ankle, coming along fine." No name, no nothing.

You also remember your Aunt Jenny who lives in Baltimore, to whom you wrote condolence, asked for details, and sent her ten dollars. And Aunt Jenny's bewildered reply—which failed to bring back your ten bucks.

There ought to be a law against goofs who think everybody knows their handwriting, their trick initials, and all the time where they are and what they're doing.

THEN THERE ARE those "number nine" letters that busy executives frame to cover a given situation with a lot of people. Sometimes they save work and sometimes they make red faces.

Lately a widely known associate died and mutual friends wrote me letters expressing their feeling of loss, quite a number of them. I cooked up an acknowledgement which was all right except the last sentence in which I expressed regret that they were unable to attend the funeral.

Three of them wrote back essentially the same face reddener: "You big sap, I was at the funeral, and attended that buffet lunch with you after the service." I'll never try that one again.

NEXT COME the letters that get you in bad by telling half of the story. Our granddaughter, en route to Europe, wrote: "Tell the boys that at last I've clicked with the passengers. I've skied off the stern of the United States."

Before due analysis, somebody "told the boys," who worship Nancy as an expert skier. The boys told everybody on the Point, with liberal exaggeration. The natives who had read that the United States stirs a wake that survives nine miles astern wanted to know how come.

We had to send the boys around again to explain that if Nancy skied off the stern of the U. S. it was behind a lowered speed boat while they were at anchor—we guessed.

THE MAILS get used a lot of queer ways. I once worked for a concern that was living from hand to mouth, but resolved to keep up appearances. One month the boss sent out all the checks, less discount, without a signature. "By the time they come back for the signature maybe we'll have the money in the bank," he said. We did.

Another time he had a different trick. The checks were signed but each went forth in a wrong envelope. Joe Jones got John Doe's check, and so on. It was a week or ten days before everything got straightened around. Meantime the bank balance had been bolstered to meet the emergency. Both times the foxy gent got away with the discount.

Many Rural Homes Lack Phones, Baths

Ithaca, Jan. 5 (AP) — More than a third of the rural homes in five upstate New York counties have no telephones and 30 per cent have no bathrooms, a Cornell University survey finds.

Forty-six per cent are without central heating systems, according to a report released yesterday.

The study covered rural homes in Monroe, Chemung, Broome, Clinton and Dutchess counties. It was directed by Glenn H. Beyer, head of the Housing Research Center at Cornell.

Beyer said half of the homes which needed septic tanks did not have them.

Non-farm rural homes have more improvements than farm homes, the report said. Farmers, it explained, often must forego housing improvements to renovate the barns on which their income depends.

Beyer said the closer a rural home was to a city, the more improvements it had.

Dutchess county, he said, has more improved rural homes than the other counties surveyed, although its average income was not as high as some of the others.

GOOD TASTE TODAY

By EMILY POST

(Author of 'Etiquette,' 'Children Are People,' etc.)

THE JOY OF GIVING

A situation of great importance is described in the following letter: "I have a friend who means much to me. When I am out shopping and I see something that I think will look well in her house, or that I know she will enjoy, I send it to her. I can afford to do these things and love to do them. Her funds are limited but yet she feels obligated to buy me presents in return. Her liking for these things I send is all the return I want. How can I stop her from buying return gifts for me which I know she cannot afford?"

Explain to her frankly that you are made unhappy by her return of your gifts, that you consider her understanding friendship of far more value than any material ones and that in returning them she is depriving you of the great pleasure it gives you to send them to her.

Marking Linens

Dear Mrs. Post: I have just recently become engaged and am now in the process of buying my linens. In regard to marking, I was told by salespeople of several leading department stores that the correct form is to have them marked with both my fiance's and my initials. For example, the initial of my future name to be in the center and, on either side of this, the initial of my first name and my fiance's first name. I have never before heard of this marking and would like your opinion.

Answer: Neither have I ever heard of such marking. Household linen is never marked with a man's first initial. A bachelor keeping house would use his crest on very fine formal table linen and the single initial of his last name on ordinary linen. The most usual marking is to have them marked with your own married initials.

Proper to Go

Dear Mrs. Post: When a person whom you have just met, and whom you like, asks you to come and see her but sets no definite date, is it proper to go to see her, or is this another meaningless phrase such as "How do you do?"

Answer: If her tone and manner are sincere, it is entirely proper to take her at her word and go to see her within a few days.

Should my engagement be announced publicly through the newspaper by writing notes to my friends? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail, but her leaflet E-1, "Engagements," includes the details. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to her, care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Jacoby on Canasta

Follow Rules to Play Better

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"Please settle this dispute," asks a Detroit correspondent. "South discards a queen, and it is West's turn to play. She draws from the stock pile and melds every card from her hand. She does not meld out, however, since her side has not yet made a canasta.

"Since West has not yet made a discard, the previous discard—a queen—is still at the top of the discard pile. North therefore tries to take the pile, since she has a pair of queens in her hand.

"This caused quite an argument. Some said that North had no right to take her partner's discard. Some said West's play ended the hand even though she had not yet melded out. And some said several contradictory things, as is the custom in arguments at the card table.

"I said not a word, I assure you, because the players were my wife and her girl friends, and I am too smart to get my neck into the middle of that. But I did promise that I would write away for a ruling. Will you take it from there?"

With pleasure. My neck has survived worse arguments than this one.

North has no right to take the discard pile or anything else. North should just sit tight until West makes a legal play.

West is not allowed to put all of her cards down on the table unless she can meld out. She cannot meld out without a canasta. Hence West has made an impossible play.

West and her partner are penalized 100 points for this play—to begin with. And then West must make some sort of correction. She corrects the error by picking up some cards, for she must make a discard and must then still have at least one card left in her hand.

How many cards must West pick up? As few as possible, and those cards must be among the group melded in the impossible play.

The absolute minimum in this case would be two cards—one to discard, and one to hold in the hand. However, West is allowed to pick up a three-card or even a four-card meld if she has just put down such a group of cards.

When West has made this correction, it will be North's proper turn to play. Her partner's discard (the queen) will be covered, and North will have her regular chance at a discard made by the player at her right.

Mr. Jacoby is unable to answer individual questions on Canasta from readers. However, he will include the most frequently asked questions in his column.

Mitchell Hepburn Dies

St. Thomas, Ont., Jan. 5 (AP)—Mitchell F. Hepburn, 56, stormy petrel of Ontario politics of a decade ago, died in his sleep early today. He was Liberal party premier of Ontario from 1934-42. Hepburn was named premier of Ontario before he was 38. Eight years before he had entered the Canadian House of Commons as its youngest member. He led the Liberal party to a sweeping victory in the Ontario general elections of 1934, ousting a Legislature that was more than 75 per cent Conservative.

Jacoby on Canasta

Follow Rules to Play Better

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"Please settle this dispute," asks a Detroit correspondent. "South discards a queen, and it is West's turn to play. She draws from the stock pile and melds every card from her hand. She does not meld out, however, since her side has not yet made a canasta.

"Since West has not yet made a discard, the previous discard—a queen—is still at the top of the discard pile. North therefore tries to take the pile, since she has a pair of queens in her hand.

"This caused quite an argument. Some said that North had no right to take her partner's discard. Some said West's play ended the hand even though she had not yet melded out. And some said several contradictory things, as is the custom in arguments at the card table.

"I said not a word, I assure you, because the players were my wife and her girl friends, and I am too smart to get my neck into the middle of that. But I did promise that I would write away for a ruling. Will you take it from there?"

With pleasure. My neck has survived worse arguments than this one.

North has no right to take the discard pile or anything else. North should just sit tight until West makes a legal play.

West is not allowed to put all of her cards down on the table unless she can meld out. She cannot meld out without a canasta. Hence West has made an impossible play.

West and her partner are penalized 100 points for this play—to begin with. And then West must make some sort of correction. She corrects the error by picking up some cards, for she must make a discard and must then still have at least one card left in her hand.

How many cards must West pick up? As few as possible, and those cards must be among the group melded in the impossible play.

The absolute minimum in this case would be two cards—one to discard, and one to hold in the hand. However, West is allowed to pick up a three-card or even a four-card meld if she has just put down such a group of cards.

When West has made this correction, it will be North's proper turn to play. Her partner's discard (the queen) will be covered, and North will have her regular chance at a discard made by the player at her right.

Mr. Jacoby is unable to answer individual questions on Canasta from readers. However, he will include the most frequently asked questions in his column.

Sixteenth Annual KBA City Tenpin Championships Start Feb. 9

Plans for the 16th annual city association tenpin championships were announced today by the Kingston Bowling Association and listed two weeks in February for the action.

The tournament will start at the Central Recreation alleys on Feb. 9 and conclude on Feb. 22 at the Bowlodrome.

The five-man event is scheduled at the Centrals on Feb. 9-15 inclusive, with singles and doubles at the Bowlodrome on Feb. 21-22.

Resumed after a break last year because of the New York State championships, the city tournament will be operated in one class with a 75 per cent handicap off scratch figures of 1000 average for teams; 400 for doubles; and 200 in singles.

A guaranteed first prize, the largest in the history of the event, will be announced later by the KBA.

For the first time since the tournament has operated, the net winners in each division will be awarded championship trophies. There will be a sponsor's trophy for the winning team and individual trophies for the members of the squad.

The total entry fee for the 5-man event is $21.25. Singles and doubles are $3.75 per person, with one dollar extra for bowlers who wish to compete in the all-events.

Average Rules Listed

Entries close at midnight, Jan. 31 with averages official as of Friday, Jan. 16. Bowlers will use their highest league average as of that date. Eighteen games in any league constitutes an official average.

All secretaries of member leagues of the Kingston Bowling Association have been requested to file a copy of their league averages as of Jan. 16 with Irwin J. Thomas, secretary of the KBA.

Bowlers who do not have a legitimate 18-game average in any league must use a 200 scratch figure if they desire to bowl in the tournament.

The handicap rules stipulate that individuals are limited to 45 pins per game, while the team limit is 200 pins per game or 600 pins for a three-game series.

Re-Entries Are Permitted

Bowlers are eligible to roll with as many sanctioned teams as they are members of, but no two bowlers can appear together in the same lineup more than twice. A bowler may compete in singles and doubles only once.

The tentaive schedule calls for 5-man squads at 7 p. m. and 9:15 p. m. on Feb. 9-10-11-12-13, with three squads at 4, 7 and 9:15 p. m. on Saturday and Sunday, if required.

For the first time in the history of the event every league secretary has been furnished with a supply of entry blanks. Other blanks will be available at the two bowling alleys.

All entries should be made payable by check or money order to the Kingston Bowling Association Tournament, P.O. Box 142, Kingston.

Letus and Fitzgerald Are Scoring Leaders

Maybe it was the brand new uniforms of blue and white that inspired the Kingston Patrolmen's Association YMCA "B" League Saturday night on the Y court.

The form chart was against them and they didn't figure to do much more than put up a good game against the undefeated Cerasaro Bros., the Y Autumn "B" champions, you know.

But after four periods of bristling action, the doughty KPA cagers had effected one of the prize upsets of the season. They had shattered Cerasaro's three-game winning streak and treated themselves to a brilliant 58-53 victory.

Lead From Start

Ahead from the opening tap, the KPAs had three men doing great work — John Letus, Bill Fitzgerald and Tony Altamore — and moved ahead 15-8 at the quarter and 30-21 at the intermission. Even when Cerasaro's made a bid to recoup ground in the third period the KPAs managed to grind out a 23-19. It was well they did because Cerasaro's outscored them 13-5 in the stretch and were coming on fast at the finish.

Letus Hits 23

Letus unloaded 23 points in his best performance of the season, while Bill Fitzgerald hit with 18 and Tony Altamore rimmed eight out of ten foul attempts for ten points. He set the pace for KPA's high percentage from the foul line and that's where the ball game was won.

Jack Schrader played his usual smooth and easy floor game and holed 15 points for Cerasaro's. Jack Graney led with 17 points.

Accord Chevies ran into transportation trouble and were forced to forfeit against Waterous Lumber.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. FIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

The flow of oratory, brilliant and impassioned, sincere and genuine, had stopped. The only noise in the darkened banquet hall of the Elks Club came from the whirring motor of the 16 mm. machine flashing on the screen the 1950 exploits of Brave Old Army.

Great Army gridiron titans galloped across the screen in that world of make believe.

Big Ed Weaver, the guest of honor, sat with the crowd, as game after game revealed the tremendous power and class of Earl Blaik's last great squad.

This was the real Ed Weaver Story unfolding. This was a flashback to happier days when the ex-KHS great was attaining stardom as a sophomore offensive end for Blaik. So great that Grantland Rice predicted All-America honors for him in 1951. . . . Then you know what happened. . . .

There came that breath-taking pass near the Michigan end zone, the day the Blaik Knights pulverized the Big 10 champions. The muck and mire and incessant rains of the Stanford clash at Palo Alto. Big Ed making a spectacular catch while surrounded by three Stanford defenders.

Then came the finale . . . Navy . . . and an unexpected defeat. A flashback to the great stone edifices of West Point . . . the chapel . . . the dress parade; the prom. . . .

Charlie Higgins, a young man with a fine sense of values, was sitting beside us.

"There must be something in those pictures that we civilians don't see," he mused. . . . "Maybe that's why Ed fought so hard to re-establish himself down there (the Point). . . ."

Who could have captured the spirit of Ed Weaver or said it any better than that?

• FLOTSAM AND JETSAM:

Woodstock golf folks saddened by the sudden death of Robert Williams, the publisher of the Paterson Call. Williams and his son, "Sandy," were a familiar twosome at the Country Club during the summer season. The guaranteed first place prize for this year's KBA city bowling championships will be the highest in history, a figure that should make the tournament mighty attractive. We never heard a finer speaker than this man Harry Grayson who will be doing the honors at the Little League dinner tonight. Lake Katrine Rod and Gun Club seeking Warren Page, Al McClane or Joe Stetson, who write those highly entertaining outdoor columns for the Freeman, for their Jan. 17 shindig at Cottekill. If none of the trio is available, President Roland Post is expected to call on Nick LaLima, expert on shooting stuffed deer, who will orate on the topic: "What I Couldn't Do In a Wax Museum!"

• OF MEN AND MICE:

First big sports news of 1953 in Kingston will concern baseball and originate out of Newburgh. Ronnie Scheffel playing steadily, if briefly, with North Carolina State, a year away from full varsity stature. At Madison Square Garden, he looked as cool and as poised as anybody on the Wolfpack varsity. When he and Dick Tyler were in the lineup simultaneously, NC moved faster. The Wolfpack has never played a good game in Madison Square and they were a little on the awful side against a mediocre St. John's quintet. Ed Conlin, the 6 foot 5 inch Fordham basketball star, is related to Joe Roche of the post office department. . . . Isn't this the year Maury McDermott was supposed to bust out as the American League's best southpaw hurler? The Bridge City fireballer ranked 17th among the American League regulars with a 3.72 ERA last year. Jimmie Fuller and Peter Rakov came home from Chaote for the holidays with brand new football letters.

A Big Difference—Take it from Clair Bee, Baltimore Bullets coach, there's a big difference between college and professional basketball.

"In college ball, the idea is fundamental," asserts the former L.I.U. tactician. "You teach your kids style. In pro ball, your boys already have learned the basics and have their own.

"The professional's idea seems to be to get the best players and keep them happy. It's more as though you were a manager."

259 Kingstonians At Hall of Fame

A total of 259 Kingstonians were among the 114,713 persons who registered at the National Baseball Hall of Fame at Cooperstown during 1952, Howard C. Talbot, assistant treasurer, announced today.

The 114,713 figure represented a new all-time record for the baseball shrine and there were only four days during the year on which no customers showed up. The top turnout was 2259 on Monday, July 21, the day of the annual major league exhibition.

One Hall of Fame employe turned out to be a peerless prophet. A year ago he predicted the total number of visitors would be 115,000. His guess was only 287 off.

In 1946, when the Hall of Fame started keeping track of its patrons, the year's attendance was 21,893. Eighty four per cent of the visitors in 1952 signed the registers, making it possible for the management to get an idea where the Hall's cash customers came from. New York state led with 49,778; with New York city leading the cities with 3580.

Howard Smashes 693 For Elstons in HVBL

Dick Howard furnished the bowling news in Hudson Valley League action over the weekend.

Returning to the Elston Sports lineup after a two weeks layoff, the Sports' anchor blasted a 693 against Fogg-Nash of Poughkeepsie Saturday night at the Central Recs.

At the end of 19 frames, the bespectacled master of alleys 7 and 8 was in a position to threaten Larry Weishaupt's seasonal record of 765. He had a 254 opener and a "270" in the wood when a "high" hit on alley 7 left the 7-10 split. He settled for 245 for a 499 aggregate going in.

He couldn't find the range for a string but a double in the tenth would have sent him over "700". He settled for 194 and 693. The team slumped along with him in the third game and lost it to the Nash. Aside from Howard's heroics it was a low-scoring duel with the Elstons hitting 2810 to 2716 for the visitors. Bob Robbins posted 203-203-588 for the FN's.

Mirons Sweep Three

Miron Lumber protected its lead with a three-game sweep over the Middletown Bennetts, despite a 667 blast by veteran "Po" Biamonte. The latter knocked off solos of 238, 224 and 205. John Torelli had 246-605 in the leadoff spot.

The Lumberjacks, paced by Hank Kemmerer's 654 (181-254-219) overcame a slow start of 924 to fire 1018 and 1025 for a 2967 aggregate. Harold Broskie shot 231-576.

Rapp's Express ran into a hot Walden Merchant squad in Orange county to suffer a three-game loss. The home pinsters rapped 2900 with 1010 high. Alvelle, the leadoff, led Walden with 232-212-205 for 647. Chris Gallo anchored Rapp's with 223-204-587.

Dick Rhea pounded 667 and George Baird had 631 as Veteran Cabs grabbed a trio from Saugerties Rec with an unusually high 2993 (for Poughkeepsie) series. The Alington Lanes won a 2-1 decision against the Ellenville Finke's.

Seton Hall Pirates Bid For No. 1 Cage Rating

New York, Jan. 5 (AP)—Other than a five-foot-five center, the biggest rarity in college basketball these days is a team that gets through the season undefeated.

The current campaign is no exception. In fact, the trend is getting more pronounced if anything. In previous years, you usually could count a dozen or so major outfits with clean records at this stage. Today, you don't have to use all your fingers to count them.

Seton Hall, Southern California, Fordham, Navy, Georgetown and Wichita still are rolling along without a setback, but it wouldn't be going out on the limb to say that it probably will be just a matter of time before they bite the dust along with the other top notchers.

All have rough schedules. Seton Hall and Fordham have a date on Jan. 14. The Rams, probably the class of an unusually weak lineup of New York schools, also play Navy. Georgetown and Navy, in turn, also have scheduled each other. Southern California still must wade through just about every team on the Pacific Coast.

Even the nation's No. 1 team in the weekly Associated Press poll, Kansas State, has been beaten, Michigan State turning the trick a couple of weeks back. But the Wildcats don't figure to have any trouble this week. They play only one game and that's against a so-so Marquette outfit.

Pirates Bid for No. 1

Seton Hall is certain to press State for the No. 1 spot not only on the basis of its undefeated record but also because it is the first major team in the country to score more than 1,000 points. Its 13 victories also head the list. Southern Cal has 10, Fordham nine, Wichita seven, Navy six and Georgetown five.

The Pirates from South Orange, N. J., play only once this week after polishing off three more opponents over the holidays. The nation's leading major college scorer, Walter Dukes, scored 28 points in the Pirates' 75-52 victory over Lemoyne Saturday night.

Now that all the tournaments are out of the way, most of the teams can start concentrating on the conference races which so far have been snowed under by the biggest rash of tournaments in history.

Three tournaments ended Saturday: Mississippi won the Memphis Invitation by downing Auburn, 65-55; Washburn whipped St. Benedict's (Kas.) in the Hutchinson (Kas.) tournament, 54-47, and Drury became the champion of the Ottawa (Kas.) event with a 60-57 triumph over Cape Girardeau.

West Virginia's 1952 football team ranged seventh nationally in rushing, seventh in total defense and ninth in total offense.

Blum Takes Northeastern Men's Speed Skating Title

Glens Falls, Jan. 5 (AP)—Ray Blum, a member of the 1948 U. S. Olympic skating team, holds the Senior Men's division title of the Northwestern New York Speed Skating Association.

The Nutley, N. J., speedster flashed to two firsts, two seconds and a third, for a total of 100 points in the Association's two-day meet, which ended yesterday.

Blum captured the Northeastern title in 1949 and 1950.

Barbara Christiansen of the Bay State Skating Club, Boston, won the Senior Women's title with 110 points on three firsts and a second. Mary Lynch of Newburgh was second with 80.

Second place in the men's division went to Edgar J. Dame Jr., of the Holy Name Skating Club of Boston, with 80 points. Alex Gouguen of Pittsfield, Mass., took third with 50.

Bobby Jahn of the Concord, Conn., Skating Club won the Woodbury Trophy for a special five-mile race in 16 minutes, 51.2 seconds.

Gloria Rattay of Flushing was the only 1953 titleholder to retain her crown. She again won the intermediate girls title.

Other division winners: Intermediate boys, Jay Hasbrouck of Newburgh; Junior boys, Richard Delisle of Leominster, Mass.; juvenile boys, Mike Wikstedt of Leominster; midget boys, Patrick Shea of Lake Placid; special midget boys, Robert Fenn of Norseman Skating Club, New York city; pee-wee boys, Peter Krinder of Grossinger.

Junior girls, Patsy Grimes of Bay State Skating Club, Boston; juvenile girls, Leslie Potter of Glens Falls and Mary Lou Brromback of Pittsfield, Mass.; midget girls, Christine Markley of Newburgh; special midget girls, Regina Clark of Newburgh, and pee-wee girls, Judy Ganter of Bay State Club, Boston.

First TV Boxing Out of Boston

Boston, Jan. 5 (AP)—The first nationally-televised sporting event to originate in Boston—a 10-round boxing bout between lightweight contenders Johnny Gonsalves of Oakland, Calif., and Paddy De Marco of Brooklyn—will be beamed from the Boston Arena, Saturday night, Jan. 24 (via ABC), it has been announced.

New England will be blacked out of the TV audience.

Promoter Sam Silverman of the Callahan A.C. said last night that the match will be the first of a Saturday night series sponsored by the makers of Phillies Cigars.

He said that a new group formed by fight trainer Ray Arcel, known as Ray Arcel Sporting Enterprises, New York city, is handling arrangements for the series, with bouts scheduled to originate here Jan. 31 and Feb. 7 and from other cities later.

Marv Edelman and Castellani Featured in Week's Top Bouts

New York, Jan. 5 (AP)—Middleweights come into the boxing spotlight this week with two of the week's big television bouts featuring the 160-pounders.

A rookie flash and an experienced veteran meet in one middleweight feature tonight, and two high-ranking contenders go in the other one Friday night.

The young flash is Marvin Edelman of Philadelphia, who meets Charley (Red) Williams, the Newark veteran, in a 10-rounder at Brooklyn's Eastern Parkway which will be televised in some sections of the country.

Edelman, 22, has won 28 fights in a row, and is being boomed as one of the best out of the Quaker City since Lew Tendler. Williams, though not much older than Edelman, has had 100 fights and won 75 of them, including seven out of eight in 1952.

The Friday night clash at Madison Square Garden features Rocky Castellani, the Luzerne, Pa., counter-puncher who is rated fifth among the contenders for the crown left vacant by Ray Robinson's abdication, against Ralph (Tiger) Jones of Yonkers.

Castellani, talked of as one of the likely participants in any tournaments drawn up to pick a middleweight champ, has won eight and drawn with Billy Graham in his last nine bouts.

One of Castellani's victims in the interim was Jones, but Rocky had to get up from a first round knockdown to win. Since then Jones leaped into prominence by whipping former NBA welterweight champ Johnny Bratton.

Stan Musial, Sharp at 32, Has Chance At All-Time National League Record

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

Each release of official batting averages embellishes the achievements of Stanley Frank Musial.

They also further stress the fact that Stan Musial is one of the most unappreciated of the truly great ball players—at the plate, on the bases, and in the field.

The latest batch of figures for the sixth time crown Stan the Man as the National League slugging champion with .538 swell his lifetime percentage to .579. The brightest of the Cardinals racked up a total of 311 bases in 578 official times at bat, had 42 doubles, six triples and 21 home runs driving in 91 runs. He walked 96 times, struck out only 29.

Third BA in Row

Musial acquired the batting championship for the third time in a row, the sixth all told, with .336, a relatively poor campaign for him. This leaves his 11-year average at .346.

Rolling at just turned 32, Musial has a grand chance of establishing a record for National League batting championships. Indeed, from the way the Donora Dandy is moving, and in view of the competition, or lack of it, he could set a major league mark.

Honus Wagner was 37 when he won his record 8th NL batting championship for himself and the Pirates in 1911. Rogers Hornsby was 32 when he bagged his seventh, this one for the Braves. Wagrer stuck around until he was 43; Hornsby until a spur on his heel sidelined the Rajah at 37.

Tyrus Raymond Cobb was 32 when he romped down in front with his 12th American League title for the Tigers in 13 years; remained in the thick of things until 41.

So, you see, Musial, comparable today, has plenty of time and the disposition and easy-does-it manner to travel the maximum route.

Toughest for Stan

Musial probably would have tied Wagner's eight the past season had he not taken a year out for the military and played through another desperately in need of an appendectomy and tonsillotomy, both of which he submitted to immediately upon the season's close.

Wagner swatted the old dead ball, when it was blackened by being tossed around the infield and otherwise, roughed and kept in the game until fouled out or hit out of the park.

Cobb got a whack at the cork center ball after it was introduced in 1912 and at the more lively one created by the introduction of Australian wool in 1920.

Hornsby fattened up on the latter, as more jackrabbit was added to enable less powerful hitters to keep in some kind of contention with the fabulous Babe Ruth, then building Yankee Stadium by making all previous home run records look like children's marks.

Musial hit under more distressing circumstances than any of the others, what with all save Sunday and holiday games at Sportsman's Park played at night, and meals at all hours. Southpaws are stacked against Musial, the left-handed batter, and he sees more relief pitchers in a week than the others saw in a season.

Stanley Musial must be judged on a contemporary basis. Comparing him with Wagner, Ty Cobb or Hornsby on a man-to-man basis wouldn't make sense.

They played a different game in another era.

Sixteenth Annual KBA City Tenpin Championships Start Feb. 9

Plans for the 16th annual city association tenpin championships were announced today by the Kingston Bowling Association and listed two weeks in February for the action.

The tournament will start at the Central Recreation alleys on Feb. 9 and conclude on Feb. 22 at the Bowlodrome.

The five-man event is scheduled at the Centrals on Feb. 9-15 inclusive, with singles and doubles at the Bowlodrome on Feb. 21-22.

Resumed after a break last year because of the New York State championships, the city tournament will be operated in one class with a 75 per cent handicap off scratch figures of 1000 average for teams; 400 for doubles; and 200 in singles.

A guaranteed first prize, the largest in the history of the event, will be announced later by the KBA.

For the first time since the tournament has operated, the net winners in each division will be awarded championship trophies. There will be a sponsor's trophy for the winning team and individual trophies for the members of the squad.

The total entry fee for the 5-man event is $21.25. Singles and doubles are $3.75 per person, with one dollar extra for bowlers who wish to compete in the all-events.

Average Rules Listed

Entries close at midnight, Jan. 31 with averages official as of Friday, Jan. 16. Bowlers will use their highest league average as of that date. Eighteen games in any league constitutes an official average.

All secretaries of member leagues of the Kingston Bowling Association have been requested to file a copy of their league averages as of Jan. 16 with Irwin J. Thomas, secretary of the KBA.

Bowlers who do not have a legitimate 18-game average in any league must use a 200 scratch figure if they desire to bowl in the tournament.

The handicap rules stipulate that individuals are limited to 45 pins per game, while the team limit is 200 pins per game or 600 pins for a three-game series.

Re-Entries Are Permitted

Bowlers are eligible to roll with as many sanctioned teams as they are members of, but no two bowlers can appear together in the same lineup more than twice. A bowler may compete in singles and doubles only once.

The tentaive schedule calls for 5-man squads at 7 p. m. and 9:15 p. m. on Feb. 9-10-11-12-13, with three squads at 4, 7 and 9:15 p. m. on Saturday and Sunday, if required.

For the first time in the history of the event every league secretary has been furnished with a supply of entry blanks. Other blanks will be available at the two bowling alleys.

All entries should be made payable by check or money order to the Kingston Bowling Association Tournament, P.O. Box 142, Kingston.

Letus and Fitzgerald Are Scoring Leaders

Maybe it was the brand new uniforms of blue and white that inspired the Kingston Patrolmen's Association YMCA "B" League Saturday night on the Y court.

The form chart was against them and they didn't figure to do much more than put up a good game against the undefeated Cerasaro Bros., the Y Autumn "B" champions, you know.

But after four periods of bristling action, the doughty KPA cagers had effected one of the prize upsets of the season. They had shattered Cerasaro's three-game winning streak and treated themselves to a brilliant 58-53 victory.

Lead From Start

Ahead from the opening tap, the KPAs had three men doing great work — John Letus, Bill Fitzgerald and Tony Altamore — and moved ahead 15-8 at the quarter and 30-21 at the intermission. Even when Cerasaro's made a bid to recoup ground in the third period the KPAs managed to grind out a 23-19. It was well they did because Cerasaro's outscored them 13-5 in the stretch and were coming on fast at the finish.

Letus Hits 23

Letus unloaded 23 points in his best performance of the season, while Bill Fitzgerald hit with 18 and Tony Altamore rimmed eight out of ten foul attempts for ten points. He set the pace for KPA's high percentage from the foul line and that's where the ball game was won.

Jack Schrader played his usual smooth and easy floor game and holed 15 points for Cerasaro's. Jack Graney led with 17 points.

Accord Chevies ran into transportation trouble and were forced to forfeit against Waterous Lumber.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. FIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

The flow of oratory, brilliant and impassioned, sincere and genuine, had stopped. The only noise in the darkened banquet hall of the Elks Club came from the whirring motor of the 16 mm. machine flashing on the screen the 1950 exploits of Brave Old Army.

Great Army gridiron titans galloped across the screen in that world of make believe.

Big Ed Weaver, the guest of honor, sat with the crowd, as game after game revealed the tremendous power and class of Earl Blaik's last great squad.

This was the real Ed Weaver Story unfolding. This was a flashback to happier days when the ex-KHS great was attaining stardom as a sophomore offensive end for Blaik. So great that Grantland Rice predicted All-America honors for him in 1951. . . . Then you know what happened. . . .

There came that breath-taking pass near the Michigan end zone, the day the Blaik Knights pulverized the Big 10 champions. The muck and mire and incessant rains of the Stanford clash at Palo Alto. Big Ed making a spectacular catch while surrounded by three Stanford defenders.

Then came the finale . . . Navy . . . and an unexpected defeat. A flashback to the great stone edifices of West Point . . . the chapel . . . the dress parade; the prom. . . .

Charlie Higgins, a young man with a fine sense of values, was sitting beside us.

"There must be something in those pictures that we civilians don't see," he mused. . . . "Maybe that's why Ed fought so hard to re-establish himself down there (the Point). . . ."

Who could have captured the spirit of Ed Weaver or said it any better than that?

• FLOTSAM AND JETSAM:

Woodstock golf folks saddened by the sudden death of Robert Williams, the publisher of the Paterson Call. Williams and his son, "Sandy," were a familiar twosome at the Country Club during the summer season. The guaranteed first place prize for this year's KBA city bowling championships will be the highest in history, a figure that should make the tournament mighty attractive. We never heard a finer speaker than this man Harry Grayson who will be doing the honors at the Little League dinner tonight. Lake Katrine Rod and Gun Club seeking Warren Page, Al McClane or Joe Stetson, who write those highly entertaining outdoor columns for the Freeman, for their Jan. 17 shindig at Cottekill. If none of the trio is available, President Roland Post is expected to call on Nick LaLima, expert on shooting stuffed deer, who will orate on the topic: "What I Couldn't Do In a Wax Museum!"

• OF MEN AND MICE:

First big sports news of 1953 in Kingston will concern baseball and originate out of Newburgh. Ronnie Scheffel playing steadily, if briefly, with North Carolina State, a year away from full varsity stature. At Madison Square Garden, he looked as cool and as poised as anybody on the Wolfpack varsity. When he and Dick Tyler were in the lineup simultaneously, NC moved faster. The Wolfpack has never played a good game in Madison Square and they were a little on the awful side against a mediocre St. John's quintet. Ed Conlin, the 6 foot 5 inch Fordham basketball star, is related to Joe Roche of the post office department. . . . Isn't this the year Maury McDermott was supposed to bust out as the American League's best southpaw hurler? The Bridge City fireballer ranked 17th among the American League regulars with a 3.72 ERA last year. Jimmie Fuller and Peter Rakov came home from Chaote for the holidays with brand new football letters.

A Big Difference—Take it from Clair Bee, Baltimore Bullets coach, there's a big difference between college and professional basketball.

"In college ball, the idea is fundamental," asserts the former L.I.U. tactician. "You teach your kids style. In pro ball, your boys already have learned the basics and have their own.

"The professional's idea seems to be to get the best players and keep them happy. It's more as though you were a manager."

259 Kingstonians At Hall of Fame

A total of 259 Kingstonians were among the 114,713 persons who registered at the National Baseball Hall of Fame at Cooperstown during 1952, Howard C. Talbot, assistant treasurer, announced today.

The 114,713 figure represented a new all-time record for the baseball shrine and there were only four days during the year on which no customers showed up. The top turnout was 2259 on Monday, July 21, the day of the annual major league exhibition.

One Hall of Fame employe turned out to be a peerless prophet. A year ago he predicted the total number of visitors would be 115,000. His guess was only 287 off.

In 1946, when the Hall of Fame started keeping track of its patrons, the year's attendance was 21,893. Eighty four per cent of the visitors in 1952 signed the registers, making it possible for the management to get an idea where the Hall's cash customers came from. New York state led with 49,778; with New York city leading the cities with 3580.

Howard Smashes 693 For Elstons in HVBL

Returning to the Elston Sports lineup after a two weeks layoff, the Sports' anchor blasted a 693 against Fogg-Nash of Poughkeepsie Saturday night at the Central Recs.

At the end of 19 frames, the bespectacled master of alleys 7 and 8 was in a position to threaten Larry Weishaupt's seasonal record of 765. He had a 254 opener and a "270" in the wood when a "high" hit on alley 7 left the 7-10 split. He settled for 245 for a 499 aggregate going in.

He couldn't find the range for a string but a double in the tenth would have sent him over "700". He settled for 194 and 693. The team slumped along with him in the third game and lost it to the Nash. Aside from Howard's heroics it was a low-scoring duel with the Elstons hitting 2810 to 2716 for the visitors. Bob Robbins posted 203-203-588 for the FN's.

Mirons Sweep Three

Miron Lumber protected its lead with a three-game sweep over the Middletown Bennetts, despite a 667 blast by veteran "Po" Biamonte. The latter knocked off solos of 238, 224 and 205. John Torelli had 246-605 in the leadoff spot.

The Lumberjacks, paced by Hank Kemmerer's 654 (181-254-219) overcame a slow start of 924 to fire 1018 and 1025 for a 2967 aggregate. Harold Broskie shot 231-576.

Rapp's Express ran into a hot Walden Merchant squad in Orange county to suffer a three-game loss. The home pinsters rapped 2900 with 1010 high. Alvelle, the leadoff, led Walden with 232-212-205 for 647. Chris Gallo anchored Rapp's with 223-204-587.

Dick Rhea pounded 667 and George Baird had 631 as Veteran Cabs grabbed a trio from Saugerties Rec with an unusually high 2993 (for Poughkeepsie) series. The Alington Lanes won a 2-1 decision against the Ellenville Finke's.

Seton Hall Pirates Bid For No. 1 Cage Rating

New York, Jan. 5 (AP)—Other than a five-foot-five center, the biggest rarity in college basketball these days is a team that gets through the season undefeated.

The current campaign is no exception. In fact, the trend is getting more pronounced if anything. In previous years, you usually could count a dozen or so major outfits with clean records at this stage. Today, you don't have to use all your fingers to count them.

Seton Hall, Southern California, Fordham, Navy, Georgetown and Wichita still are rolling along without a setback, but it wouldn't be going out on the limb to say that it probably will be just a matter of time before they bite the dust along with the other top notchers.

All have rough schedules. Seton Hall and Fordham have a date on Jan. 14. The Rams, probably the class of an unusually weak lineup of New York schools, also play Navy. Georgetown and Navy, in turn, also have scheduled each other. Southern California still must wade through just about every team on the Pacific Coast.

Even the nation's No. 1 team in the weekly Associated Press poll, Kansas State, has been beaten, Michigan State turning the trick a couple of weeks back. But the Wildcats don't figure to have any trouble this week. They play only one game and that's against a so-so Marquette outfit.

Pirates Bid for No. 1

Seton Hall is certain to press State for the No. 1 spot not only on the basis of its undefeated record but also because it is the first major team in the country to score more than 1,000 points. Its 13 victories also head the list. Southern Cal has 10, Fordham nine, Wichita seven, Navy six and Georgetown five.

The Pirates from South Orange, N. J., play only once this week after polishing off three more opponents over the holidays. The nation's leading major college scorer, Walter Dukes, scored 28 points in the Pirates' 75-52 victory over Lemoyne Saturday night.

Now that all the tournaments are out of the way, most of the teams can start concentrating on the conference races which so far have been snowed under by the biggest rash of tournaments in history.

Three tournaments ended Saturday: Mississippi won the Memphis Invitation by downing Auburn, 65-55; Washburn whipped St. Benedict's (Kas.) in the Hutchinson (Kas.) tournament, 54-47, and Drury became the champion of the Ottawa (Kas.) event with a 60-57 triumph over Cape Girardeau.

West Virginia's 1952 football team ranged seventh nationally in rushing, seventh in total defense and ninth in total offense.

First TV Boxing Out of Boston

Boston, Jan. 5 (AP)—The first nationally-televised sporting event to originate in Boston—a 10-round boxing bout between lightweight contenders Johnny Gonsalves of Oakland, Calif., and Paddy De Marco of Brooklyn—will be beamed from the Boston Arena, Saturday night, Jan. 24 (via ABC), it has been announced.

New England will be blacked out of the TV audience.

Promoter Sam Silverman of the Callahan A.C. said last night that the match will be the first of a Saturday night series sponsored by the makers of Phillies Cigars.

He said that a new group formed by fight trainer Ray Arcel, known as Ray Arcel Sporting Enterprises, New York city, is handling arrangements for the series, with bouts scheduled to originate here Jan. 31 and Feb. 7 and from other cities later.

Stan Musial, Sharp at 32, Has Chance At All-Time National League Record

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

Each release of official batting averages embellishes the achievements of Stanley Frank Musial.

They also further stress the fact that Stan Musial is one of the most unappreciated of the truly great ball players—at the plate, on the bases, and in the field.

The latest batch of figures for the sixth time crown Stan the Man as the National League slugging champion with .538 swell his lifetime percentage to .579. The brightest of the Cardinals racked up a total of 311 bases in 578 official times at bat, had 42 doubles, six triples and 21 home runs driving in 91 runs. He walked 96 times, struck out only 29.

Third BA in Row

Musial acquired the batting championship for the third time in a row, the sixth all told, with .336, a relatively poor campaign for him. This leaves his 11-year average at .346.

Rolling at just turned 32, Musial has a grand chance of establishing a record for National League batting championships. Indeed, from the way the Donora Dandy is moving, and in view of the competition, or lack of it, he could set a major league mark.

Honus Wagner was 37 when he won his record 8th NL batting championship for himself and the Pirates in 1911. Rogers Hornsby was 32 when he bagged his seventh, this one for the Braves. Wagner stuck around until he was 43; Hornsby until a spur on his heel sidelined the Rajah at 37.

Tyrus Raymond Cobb was 32 when he romped down in front with his 12th American League title for the Tigers in 13 years; remained in the thick of things until 41.

So, you see, Musial, comparable today, has plenty of time and the disposition and easy-does-it manner to travel the maximum route.

Toughest for Stan

Musial probably would have tied Wagner's eight the past season had he not taken a year out for the military and played through another desperately in need of an appendectomy and tonsillotomy, both of which he submitted to immediately upon the season's close.

Wagner swatted the old dead ball, when it was blackened by being tossed around the infield and otherwise, roughed and kept in the game until fouled out or hit out of the park.

Cobb got a whack at the cork center ball after it was introduced in 1912 and at the more lively one created by the introduction of Australian wool in 1920.

Hornsby fattened up on the latter, as more jackrabbit was added to enable less powerful hitters to keep in some kind of contention with the fabulous Babe Ruth, then building Yankee Stadium by making all previous home run records look like children's marks.

Musial hit under more distressing circumstances than any of the others, what with all save Sunday and holiday games at Sportsman's Park played at night, and meals at all hours. Southpaws are stacked against Musial, the left-handed batter, and he sees more relief pitchers in a week than the others saw in a season.

Stanley Musial must be judged on a contemporary basis. Comparing him with Wagner, Ty Cobb or Hornsby on a man-to-man basis wouldn't make sense.

They played a different game in another era.

Marv Edelman and Castellani Featured in Week's Top Bouts

New York, Jan. 5 (AP)—Middleweights come into the boxing spotlight this week with two of the week's big television bouts featuring the 160-pounders.

A rookie flash and an experienced veteran meet in one middleweight feature tonight, and two high-ranking contenders go in the other one Friday night.

The young flash is Marvin Edelman of Philadelphia, who meets Charley (Red) Williams, the Newark veteran, in a 10-rounder at Brooklyn's Eastern Parkway which will be televised in some sections of the country.

Edelman, 22, has won 28 fights in a row, and is being boomed as one of the best out of the Quaker City since Lew Tendler. Williams, though not much older than Edelman, has had 100 fights and won 75 of them, including seven out of eight in 1952.

The Friday night clash at Madison Square Garden features Rocky Castellani, the Luzerne, Pa., counter-puncher who is rated fifth among the contenders for the crown left vacant by Ray Robinson's abdication, against Ralph (Tiger) Jones of Yonkers.

Castellani, talked of as one of the likely participants in any tournaments drawn up to pick a middleweight champ, has won eight and drawn with Billy Graham in his last nine bouts.

One of Castellani's victims in the interim was Jones, but Rocky had to get up from a first round knockdown to win. Since then Jones leaped into prominence by whipping former NBA welterweight champ Johnny Bratton.

THE SETH GREEN TROLLING RIG

By AL McCLANE
(Fishing Editor)

One of the unique trolling rigs of fresh water fishing is the Seth Green. This rig is a popular method in the Finger Lake region of New York. The bait is the "sawbelly" and it is around this forage species that Seth Green technique is built.

A series of leadered hooks with the fresh-caught bait are suspended by three-way swivels at 15-foot intervals along a single copper or heavy-tarred line weighted by eight ounces or more of lead.

The lead hits the lake bottom under a school of sawbellies and the boat drifts while the line is moved up and down with a special wrist action which imparts a darting, twisting action to the bait. The sawbellies follow the light, the trout follow the sawbellies. Most of this fishing is done in 60 to 100 feet of water.

There are many variations of this rig for both trolling and bait-fishing, the actual use of any one being a slow process of dunk-and-retrieve to prevent tangling the bait. Seth Green rigs are stored in screen-bottom boxes and require careful manipulation to prevent fouling in the dark. Many night fishermen use two lines—one rig equipped with spoons (5 leaders) and the other with sawbellies. Obviously this calls for more than a normal amount of dexterity.

A lantern light on the lake at night attracts myriads of sawbellies to the surface. This concentration of bait fish in turn brings out the big lake trout, who can't resist so much food in one package. The angler with his sawbelly dipper (with a streamlined metal mesh for fast work underwater) merely scoops up his bait as the sawbellies congregate within reach. The little fish leave at dawn, so it's best to fill the larder while it's still dark.

Perhaps the biggest question that comes to mind when starting out on a trolling junket is whether to use a rod or not. Local society approves of the use of handlines—for the very sensible reason that the fishermen has a more sensitive contact with a fish and lake bottom, and this is important at extreme depths. Too, the ordinary fresh-water rod and reel cannot stand the rigors of trolling.

A wooden reel can be bolted to the boat, held in the lap, or hung on a pole. Many inexperienced fishermen turn up their noses at wire-line fishing, but there is much to be said in its favor. Most important of its advantages over other lines is the fact that wire will sink without lead. Soft-solid copper-wire monel metal lines of no less than 100 yards is generally used by the wiremen.

Trolling slowly, the spoons should be worked smack on the bottom and fluttered in a series of jerks by means of a stroking motion which allows the spoon to drop back and bounce on the gravel. When the angler does learn to play the lake floor, whether jiggling or trolling, his catches increase with experience.

The rocky upgrades off the points are often the most productive areas, but location of the trout varies with the season, and for this reason it's well to become familiar with the various types of bottom.

Penn Five Rated Best Among Ivies

New York, Jan. 5 (AP)—With Ernie Beck back in shape, Pennsylvania's basketball team this week starts out after the Ivy League championship handed to them by the league coaches in a pre-season poll.

It will be recalled that the coaches also awarded the laurels to Penn in the pre-season balloting last year, only to see Princeton come along and win the title by knocking off the Penns. This year, however, Penn must beat back the challenge of Columbia for the league championship.

Despite the loss of Beck due to an intestinal disorder which developed in the Dixie Classic, Penn downed Pitt, 81-76, Saturday night to bring the Red and Blue season record to 7-1. Only Columbia, which has won five straight after an opening loss to Fordham, can challenge that mark among the Ivies. None of the others, in fact, are over .500.

But Beck is in shape for this week's home-and-home series with Yale (Tuesday at New Haven and Saturday at Philadelphia), so Penn should get off to a rousing start in the title race.

Cornell is the nominal leader on the strength of its 64-56 victory over Harvard last month, the only league game played thus far. The Big Red plays a return engagement at Harvard Friday and follows with a visit to Dartmouth Saturday.

IBMRouts 3 Bros.

With several regulars missing because of illness, the Three Bros. quintet fell easy prey to the powerful IBM squad of Poughkeepsie, 92-52, Saturday night at the Wiltwyck School court at Esopus.

Coach Earle O. Terwilliger of the Three Bros. said he tried to get a last-minute cancellation but was unable to do so.

Three Brothers played with four men through three periods and didn't get relief until the early minutes of the fourth quarter when Mains arrived. The other players were either sick or unable to show up.

Led by Murphy with 25 points, the IBM cagers started pulling away in the second quarter and reeled off period totals of 25-23-29. Swanson hit 18 for the visitors who displayed great passwork and uncanny accuracy. Even Coach Terwilliger admitted a full, healthy lineup would have had its hands full against the Dutchess sharpshooters.

Harold Hutton paced Three Bros. with 13 points and Jay Rider had 12. Four of the stalwarts missing were Big Jim Ferraro, Frank Secreto, Bob Burger and Big Jack Doyle.

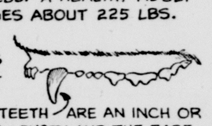
HOW TO IDENTIFY A BEAR CUB...

CUB BLACK BEAR

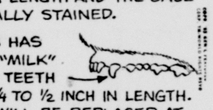
A CUB HAS A STUBBED, BABY FACE AND FINE, SILKY HAIR. AN ADULT'S HAIR IS HEAVY AND COARSE.

SIZE IS NOT ALWAYS RELIABLE BECAUSE A LARGE CUB MAY BE AS BIG AS A RUNTY ADULT. A BLACK BEAR CUB MAY WEIGH UP TO 90 LBS. A HEALTHY ADULT AVERAGES ABOUT 225 LBS.

THE ADULT'S PERMANENT CANINE TEETH ARE AN INCH OR MORE IN LENGTH AND THE BASE IS USUALLY STAINED.



A CUB HAS SMALL "MILK" CANINE TEETH ABOUT ¼ TO ½ INCH IN LENGTH. THESE WILL BE REPLACED AT MATURITY BY PERMANENT TEETH.



IF IN DOUBT, LET SMALL BEARS GO. TAKE ONLY ADULT TROPHIES!

Takes Money, Victim's Car

New York, Jan. 5 (AP)—A lone robber today robbed an employe of the Jat Transportation Co., of between $5,000 and $6,000 and drove away in his victim's automobile. Police said passersby at 116th street and Madison avenue during the height of the morning rush hour were unaware of the incident. The employe, Percival Forrest, of Locust Manor, Queens, pulled up at the corner to make a deposit at a bank. The robber approached, pointing revolver, forced Forrest out of the car, took the money, got into the car and drove away.

Rose Bowl Pact Hinges on NCAA

San Francisco, Jan. 5 (AP)—The Big Ten and the Pacific Coast Conference apparently will continue to play football in the Rose Bowl—unless all post season football games are abandoned.

That was reported following a closed meeting between university presidents and representatives of the two conferences yesterday. All members of both conferences were represented except Wisconsin.

An unofficial spokesman, who asked not to be identified, said it appeared to him a majority of the Big Ten representatives favor signing a new Rose Bowl pact to succeed the one which expires after the next New Year's Day game.

The PCC already has voted to invite the Big Ten to sign a new agreement.

Deadline for renewal is June 5, but the Big Ten is expected to give its formal answer after the National Collegiate Athletic Association convention opening in Washington Tuesday.

Mangrum Widens Lead Five Strokes

Los Angeles, Jan. 4 (AP) — It's going to be fairly tough for Lloyd Mangrum to escape winning his third Los Angeles Open golf crown.

Mangrum has won this event twice, in 1949 and 1951. If the two year span holds, he's due again. But there's a better reason. He started out over Riviera Country Club's hilly acres today five strokes up on the field—his three-under-par 210 that much better than his nearest rivals, Jack Burke, Jr., of Houston, Tex., and Art Wall, Jr., of Pocono Manor, Pa.

Mangrum, a Los Angeles product now playing out of Niles, Ill., was 14 strokes worse at this stage a year ago than he is today. He had 224 and took a 76 on the last day for 300, out of the money even though the winning score was 289.

He could take another 76 today, and a hot round from one of the others could beat him. But he'll have to play a lot worse than this 69-72-69 so far. In fact, he's practically a cinch to capture his third crown, equalling the achievement of Ben Hogan in 1942-47 and '48. The record is held by the late MacDonald Smith, who won in 1928, 1929, 1932 and 1934.

THE SETH GREEN TROLLING RIG

By AL McCLANE
(Fishing Editor)

One of the unique trolling rigs of fresh water fishing is the Seth Green. This rig is a popular method in the Finger Lake region of New York. The bait is the "sawbelly" and it is around this forage species that Seth Green technique is built.

A series of leadered hooks with the fresh-caught bait are suspended by three-way swivels at 15-foot intervals along a single copper or heavy-tarred line weighted by eight ounces or more of lead.

The lead hits the lake bottom under a school of sawbellies and the boat drifts while the line is moved up and down with a special wrist action which imparts a darting, twisting action to the bait. The sawbellies follow the light, the trout follow the sawbellies. Most of this fishing is done in 60 to 100 feet of water.

There are many variations of this rig for both trolling and bait-fishing, the actual use of any one being a slow process of dunk-and-retrieve to prevent tangling the bait. Seth Green rigs are stored in screen-bottom boxes and require careful manipulation to prevent fouling in the dark. Many night fishermen use two lines—one rig equipped with spoons (5 leaders) and the other with sawbellies. Obviously this calls for more than a normal amount of dexterity.

A lantern light on the lake at night attracts myriads of sawbellies to the surface. This concentration of bait fish in turn brings out the big lake trout, who can't resist so much food in one package. The angler with his sawbelly dipper (with a streamlined metal mesh for fast work underwater) merely scoops up his bait as the sawbellies congregate within reach. The little fish leave at dawn, so it's best to fill the larder while it's still dark.

Perhaps the biggest question that comes to mind when starting out on a trolling junket is whether to use a rod or not. Local society approves of the use of handlines—for the very sensible reason that the fishermen has a more sensitive contact with a fish and lake bottom, and this is important at extreme depths. Too, the ordinary fresh-water rod and reel cannot stand the rigors of trolling.

A wooden reel can be bolted to the boat, held in the lap, or hung on a pole. Many inexperienced fishermen turn up their noses at wire-line fishing, but there is much to be said in its favor. Most important of its advantages over other lines is the fact that wire will sink without lead. Soft-solid copper-wire monel metal lines of no less than 100 yards is generally used by the wiremen.

Trolling slowly, the spoons should be worked smack on the bottom and fluttered in a series of jerks by means of a stroking motion which allows the spoon to drop back and bounce on the gravel. When the angler does learn to play the lake floor, whether jiggling or trolling, his catches increase with experience.

The rocky upgrades off the points are often the most productive areas, but location of the trout varies with the season, and for this reason it's well to become familiar with the various types of bottom.

Penn Five Rated Best Among Ivies

New York, Jan. 5 (AP)—With Ernie Beck back in shape, Pennsylvania's basketball team this week starts out after the Ivy League championship handed to them by the league coaches in a pre-season poll.

It will be recalled that the coaches also awarded the laurels to Penn in the pre-season balloting last year, only to see Princeton come along and win the title by knocking off the Penns. This year, however, Penn must beat back the challenge of Columbia for the league championship.

Despite the loss of Beck due to an intestinal disorder which developed in the Dixie Classic, Penn downed Pitt, 81-76, Saturday night to bring the Red and Blue season record to 7-1. Only Columbia, which has won five straight after an opening loss to Fordham, can challenge that mark among the Ivies. None of the others, in fact, are over .500.

But Beck is in shape for this week's home-and-home series with Yale (Tuesday at New Haven and Saturday at Philadelphia), so Penn should get off to a rousing start in the title race.

Cornell is the nominal leader on the strength of its 64-56 victory over Harvard last month, the only league game played thus far. The Big Red plays a return engagement at Harvard Friday and follows with a visit to Dartmouth Saturday.

IBM Routs 3 Bros.

With several regulars missing because of illness, the Three Bros. quintet fell easy prey to the powerful IBM squad of Poughkeepsie, 92-52, Saturday night at the Wiltwyck School court at Esopus.

Coach Earle O. Terwilliger of the Three Bros. said he tried to get a last-minute cancellation but was unable to do so.

Three Brothers played with four men through three periods and didn't get relief until the early minutes of the fourth quarter when Mains arrived. The other players were either sick or unable to show up.

Led by Murphy with 25 points, the IBM cagers started pulling away in the second quarter and reeled off period totals of 25-23-29. Swanson hit 18 for the visitors who displayed great passwork and uncanny accuracy. Even Coach Terwilliger admitted a full, healthy lineup would have had its hands full against the Dutchess sharpshooters.

Harold Hutton paced Three Bros. with 13 points and Jay Rider had 12. Four of the stalwarts missing were Big Jim Ferraro, Frank Secreto, Bob Burger and Big Jack Doyle.

The boxscore:

Sports Film Slated At KHS Wednesday

John Jay, America's official Olympic photographer, will present his greatest feature-length color film, Olympic Victory, at Kingston High School auditorium Wednesday, Jan. 7 at 8 p. m. The film is being sponsored by the Kingston High School Ski Club and the Trail Sweepers.

The winter sports film features whirling skaters, speeding skiers and thundering bob-sleds in action and magnificent scenes of Alpine grandeur and the thrilling leaps and spills on Norway's Olympic ski jump. The public is invited to attend.

Little League Director Urges Area Organization

Little League representatives from several counties on both sides of the Hudson will attend tonight's Little League banquet at the George Washington school, Robert Umpleby announced today.

After the dinner, the LL directors will convene with National Commissioner Carl A. Stotz to discuss organizational problems in this area.

The national commissioner is anxious to have all Little Leagues under full tournament sanction next year. He will outline plans for an area organization that will bring about greater benefits from Little League baseball.

Stotz will share speaking honors with Harry Grayson, NEA sports editor, at tonight's dinner. County Judge John M. Cashin also has been added to the speaking program.

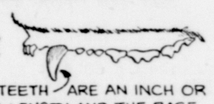
HOW TO IDENTIFY A BEAR CUB....

A CUB HAS A STUBBED, BABY FACE AND FINE, SILKY HAIR. AN ADULT'S HAIR IS HEAVY AND COARSE.

CUB BLACK BEAR

SIZE IS NOT ALWAYS RELIABLE BECAUSE A LARGE CUB MAY BE AS BIG AS A RUNTY ADULT. A BLACK BEAR CUB MAY WEIGH UP TO 90 LBS. A HEALTHY ADULT AVERAGES ABOUT 225 LBS.

THE ADULT'S PERMANENT CANINE TEETH ARE AN INCH OR MORE IN LENGTH AND THE BASE IS USUALLY STAINED.



A CUB HAS SMALL "MILK" CANINE TEETH ABOUT ¼ TO ½ INCH IN LENGTH. THESE WILL BE REPLACED AT MATURITY BY PERMANENT TEETH.

IF IN DOUBT, LET SMALL BEARS GO. TAKE ONLY ADULT TROPHIES!

Takes Money, Victim's Car

New York, Jan. 5 (AP)—A lone robber today robbed an employe of the Jat Transportation Co., of between $5,000 and $6,000 and drove away in his victim's automobile. Police said passersby at 116th street and Madison avenue during the height of the morning rush hour were unaware of the incident. The employe, Percival Forrest, of Locust Manor, Queens, pulled up at the corner to make a deposit at a bank. The robber approached, pointing revolver, forced Forrest out of the car, took the money, got into the car and drove away.

Rose Bowl Pact Hinges on NCAA

San Francisco, Jan. 5 (AP)—The Big Ten and the Pacific Coast Conference apparently will continue to play football in the Rose Bowl—unless all post season football games are abandoned.

That was reported following a closed meeting between university presidents and representatives of the two conferences yesterday. All members of both conferences were represented except Wisconsin.

An unofficial spokesman, who asked not to be identified, said it appeared to him a majority of the Big Ten representatives favor signing a new Rose Bowl pact to succeed the one which expires after the next New Year's Day game.

The PCC already has voted to invite the Big Ten to sign a new agreement.

Deadline for renewal is June 5, but the Big Ten is expected to give its formal answer after the National Collegiate Athletic Association convention opening in Washington Tuesday.

Mangrum Widens Lead Five Strokes

Los Angeles, Jan. 4 (AP) — It's going to be fairly tough for Lloyd Mangrum to escape winning his third Los Angeles Open golf crown.

Mangrum has won this event twice, in 1949 and 1951. If the two year span holds, he's due again. But there's a better reason. He started out over Riviera Country Club's hilly acres today five strokes up on the field—his three-under-par 210 that much better than his nearest rivals, Jack Burke, Jr., of Houston, Tex., and Art Wall, Jr., of Pocono Manor, Pa.

Mangrum, a Los Angeles product now playing out of Niles, Ill., was 14 strokes worse at this stage a year ago than he is today. He had 224 and took a 76 on the last day for 300, out of the money even though the winning score was 289.

He could take another 76 today, and a hot round from one of the others could beat him. But he'll have to play a lot worse than this 69-72-69 so far. In fact, he's practically a cinch to capture his third crown, equalling the achievement of Ben Hogan in 1942-47 and '48. The record is held by the late MacDonald Smith, who won in 1928, 1929, 1932 and 1934.

Ridgway Believes West Would Repel Soviet Offensive

Supreme Headquarters, Allied Powers in Europe, Jan. 5 (AP) — Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway said today a Soviet attack in the next 12 or 18 months would inflict grievous blows on the west, "but I don't believe we would be defeated."

Nevertheless, the SHAPE commander told a news conference the progress of the western military buildup is "far from satisfactory in view of the accepted estimates of the enemy's capabilities." He added:

"SHAPE's mission remains unchanged—to defend all our peoples and all our land. It's this problem * * * viewed against the background of the potential enemy's capabilities today that gives such urgency to insure solution if that dread issue should be forced upon us."

Ridgway said SHAPE has another major mission in backing up the west in diplomatic discussions.

"In the fight NATO is making for peace by peaceful means, it is of vital importance that our political authorities shall have their voices in negotiations between the east and west backed up by the only force which potential aggressors recognize," he said.

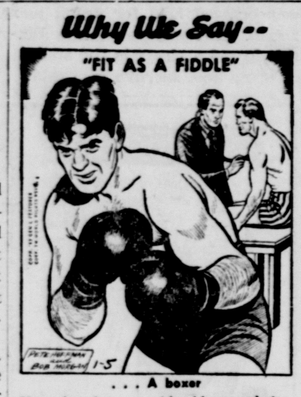
Why We Say--

"FIT AS A FIDDLE"



. . . A boxer

There has been considerable speculation about the origin of this old expression. It appears that the original expression was "As fit as a fiddler." Oddly enough, boxers at one time were called fiddlers and their physical fitness was checked before each fight.

Churchill Says

at a table in front of a mural showing a nymph reclining on white clouds surrounded by winged cherubs.

As the new conference opened, he shielded his eyes from blinding flashbulbs, and muttered, "I can't see anything."

He took a few puffs on his cigar, laid it aside, and began:

"I hope you've had a good year. We haven't had a bad one. The general state of health on the other side of the ocean is at least as good as it was last year."

Flanking Churchill were Financier Bernard Baruch, at whose home the Prime Minister will be a guest while in New York, and Sir Roger Makins, the new British ambassador to the United States, who accompanied Churchill from England.

Declines to Comment

The prime minister declined to comment on whether he thought a personal meeting of himself with Soviet Premier Stalin would contribute anything to easing world tensions.

"I thought you would ask me something about that," he said. "I really have nothing to say. If I had, I know you would feel that this is not the right place to say it."

Stalin said recently in a statement to the New York Times that he was agreeable to a meeting with Eisenhower, and British spokesmen have indicated the possibility of such a meeting would be discussed by Eisenhower and Churchill.

Questioned about British atomic developments, Churchill remarked that the United States had not stuck to the promise made by the late President Roosevelt to exchange with Britain the "fullest information" about the atomic bomb.

"We want to be a useful partner," Churchill said. "We don't want to do anything that would not be of common benefit."

Praises Truman

Churchill had high praise for President Truman, who he said has "headed a memorable period in American history."

"He has taken great and valiant decisions, which have made us all feel better," Churchill said.

The prime minister said he had been unhappy to see the intense clashes between American political leaders during the election campaign—and to see "all our old friends flung against each other."

"You do go in for this sort of thing very thoroughly, you know," he remarked.

Churchill, after a stay of a few days in New York, will go to Washington to pay his respects to President Truman, then will go on to Jamaica for a two weeks vacation.

Churchill appeared pale as he sat before the packed room of reporters, his eyes blinking against occasional flares of camera flash bulbs.

'Nothing Extraordinary'

He said there was "nothing extraordinary" in his meeting—probably tomorrow—with Eisenhower. He said he had met Eisenhower perhaps 100 times during World War II.

"And even though this may be our 101st meeting," he said, "it doesn't follow that anything should go wrong any more than at any of the previous meetings."

Concerning Korea, Churchill said, "nobody like a prolonged stalemate, but there are worse things than a stalemate—there is a checkmate—we know how you feel about the immense contributions you have made in Korea—Dozen times more than all the rest of us put together.

"But you must not look at Korea only for what is happening there—but at the fact that Soviet aggression has been resolutely and fully confronted." He said, * * * this has done more to improve the chance of world peace than anything else."

Churchill sidestepped a question about the possibility of an economic blockade of China, reportedly under consideration by Eisenhower.

Dead Man's Room

the Labor Progressive party and agent here for a New York magazine, identified as the American Greek Tribune. They said the only known relative was a brother in New York, but did not know his name or address.

Capt. Louis Champagne, head of the Montreal anti-subversive squad, said Royal Canadian Mounted Police have been advised of the seizure of material and will be present when it is checked. Notes found in the man's suit contained references to Klaus Fuchs, now serving a 14-year-old sentence for betraying atomic secrets to Russia while employed on nuclear research in Britain. Police added that most of the written notes were illegible.

Police said papers were found which attested to Stathapoulos' membership in the Communist party.

"We also found literature direct from Russia, Communist China, North Korea and the Communist party in Greece."

Weyl Says Hiss Red

members of the group "all knew they were part of a revolutionary organization."

Weyl, who has told his story to a congressional committee, was asked in the present interview:

"Do you feel there are many people, possibly some liberals, in this country who still feel that Hiss is innocent?"

"I think today very few," Weyl replied. "I think however that the conclusion they finally and reluctantly reached about Hiss's guilt isn't going to prevent them from defending the next person who falls into the same situation. I am not referring to ordinary Communists or spies but to those Communists who have the gift of appearing to the general public as champions of liberalism."

To the question—"Do you know of any Communist in the administration?" Weyl replied:

"If there are any today, I don't know about them. If I did, I would give their names to the FBI."

24 Are Summoned For Jury Duty

On the civil calendar for the January trial term of Supreme Court, which was convened today by Justice Kenneth MacAffer, are 512 cases on the regular calendar and again at this term a "military" calendar has appeared. On the "military" calendar are eight additional cases. These are cases in which some party concerned is in military service and not available.

A trial and grand jury is in attendance. On the Grand jury summoned for duty are:

Henry Battenfeld, Hurley; Frederick C. Baumgarten, Marbletown; Margaret Braddon, Woodstock; Ralph H. Bradford, Ulster; Harvey Chase Hurley; Eli J. DePuy, Marbletown; Ralph F. Dewey, Rosendale; Doris Friedman, Kingston; Rowena P. Haviland, Lloyd; Edna B. Jansen, Marbletown; Robert Kelder, Kingston city; Eugene Maier, Hurley; Frank D. Markle, Marbletown; Gershom Mount, Plattekill; Frederick C. Osterhoudt, New Paltz; George Reitmeir, Olive; Lawrence J. Ryan, Hurley; Frank Smith, Wawarsing; James D. Spencer, Saugerties; Stanley Steen, Marbletown; Max Stern, Wawarsing; Harold Taylor, Esopus; Kenneth Till, Saugerties; John Tillson, Marbletown.

Committee

war should be "developing more actively," there is a possibility that Eisenhower might add to the military budget rather than cut it. He predicted overall economies and said he thinks Eisenhower intends to "Pare XXX all along the line."

Rep. Halleck of Indiana, House GOP floor leader, said he puts balancing of the budget as the first goal of the new Congress.

He told television interviewers (NBC, Meet the Press) that after federal spending is cut the lawmakers will then know how far they can lower taxes without putting the government back in the red. There never was a Truman budget, he added, which did not have room for a substantial cut.

No Action, Is Guess

Bridges said that "unles something more developed" he guessed the new Senate would take no action on a report questioning whether Sen. McCarthy (R.-Wis.) used for his own purposes funds donated to help his campaign against what McCarthy calls widespread Communist in government.

Sen. Welker (R.-Idaho), terming "outlandish" the report by a Democratic-controlled elections subcommittee of the last Senate, said he will ask that it be rejected. Welker is a member of the rules committee which will consider it next.

Most of this week in Congress will be spent on the difficult and somewhat touchy task of assigning senators and House members to committees—the groups where much of the actual business of writing the nation's laws is done.

Concerned Over Ideas

In the Senate, GOP leaders are concerned over proposals to reshuffle present assignments so that key posts will go to Republicans with good records of party loyalty. Also under consideration is a proposal to increase the size of a few more desirable committees.

A super-committee is working out Republican committee assignments in the House. With 221 members, Republicans have 285 committee seats at their disposal. In parceling them out they are expected to follow the time-honored seniority rule.

Democrats, in the minority, are faced with the problem of distributing their reduced committee holdings.

A skirmish over the Senate's rules on curbing filibusters probably will be settled tomorrow or the next day. A group of 19 senators wants to change the rules to make it easier to limit debate, but their proposal is headed for defeat unles there is a sudden change of sentiment.

Debate on the proposed new rule, under which 49 rather than the present 64 votes would be needed to shut off filibusters, is due tomorrow. Sen. Taft of Ohio, the new GOP floor leader, has indicated he will move to kill it after a reasonable discussion—perhaps a couple hours on each side.

Maid Says

The courtroom was ordered cleared for five minutes until she could regain her composure.

Her attorney, Lt. Col. Howard S. Levie of New York, gave her smelling salts.

Mrs. Smith shuddered when a wicked-looking hunting knife was introduced. Her eyes filled with tears when a 17-year-old boy, son of a major and friend of the Smith family, testified. He said he heard Mrs. Smith tell her husband, two weeks before the slaying, "some day I'm going to kill you."

The maid testified she found the hunting knife and gave it to Mrs. Smith two days before Colonel Smith was stabbed.

Miss Tani, a cool and composed witness, said Smith, 45-year-old chief of the Plans and Operations Division of the Logistics Section of U. S. Far East headquarters, told her he had been stabbed by his wife.

Just before the trial recessed for the day, the maid testified Mrs. Smith drank heavily.

Crew Is Cleared

New York, Jan. 5 (AP)—The liner Queen Mary's 1,253 crew members were cleared for shore leave by immigration officials when the ship arrived here today. Russell H. Danielson, immigration inspector, made the trip from Europe aboard the liner to question the crew under requirements of the controversial McCarran-Walter Act aimed at keeping subversives from landing.

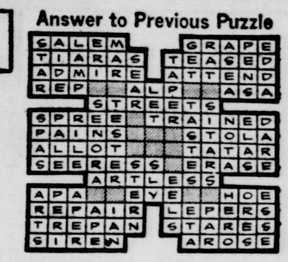
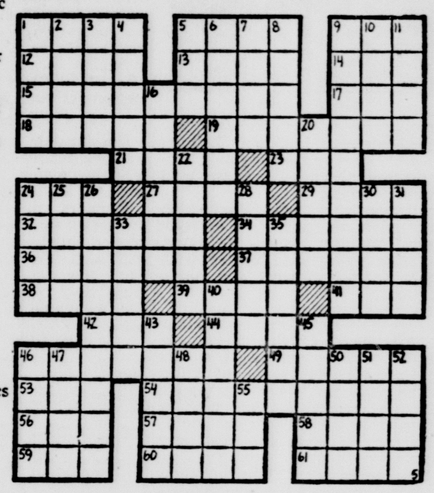
Answer to Previous Puzzle





Full Impact

that Haywood has "indicated that some sense can be brought into this picture and that meetings can now be held."

Up until that time, TWU President Michael J. Quill had said he would boycott any city hall meetings. Quill was holding out for an apology from the mayor for a declaration that the TWU and the eight companies were making a "squeeze play" to get higher fares.

The struck lines are in Manhattan, the Bronx, Queens and the lower part of suburban Westchester county.

The TWU has directed its members employed in the city-owned subway-elevated-bus trolley transit system not to work overtime in any move to step up service on the municipal lines during the strike.

Promises CIO Support

Haywood promised the TWU strikers the support of the CIO at yesterday's mass meeting, attended by 5,000 men.

The meeting, backing Quill, rejected the settlement proposal made by Impellitteri on television Saturday night.

The mayor proposed that the men go on a 40-hour week March 1, with increases of 18 to 20 cents an hour in basic wages. The union seeks a cut in the 44-to-48 hour week to 40 hours. In addition to the hours reduction — with no cut in take-home pay—the union seeks a pay increase of 25 cents an hour. Current pay ranges from $1.66 to 1.73½ an hour.

The companies contend they cannot meet the union's demands without a fare increase or tax concessions. Bus fares are mostly all 10 cents. The city administration has banned any fare hike, but has indicated willingness to grant tax concessions to the private companies.

Statehood

measures were forced to put them aside when heavy opposition developed.

Asked whether he looks for a filibuster against the Hawaii measure at this session, Knowland replied:

"I would hope not. We assume the bill will be discussed on its merits and that we will be able the bring it to a vote."

Knowland said the Hawaii measure will be introduced by Sen. Cordon as chief sponsor.

and said that this money would go into a special strike fund.

Besides the offer to work, the union leaders said there would be no picketing of piers, with a few exceptions, unless there were some indications that unauthorized personnel were weighing and sampling bulk cargo.

ILA members involved in the strike normally handle such bulk cargo as sugar, beans and hides. They check its weight at the pier during loading, and sample items to make sure they are up to standard. Ridgway Believes West Would Repel Soviet Offensive

Supreme Headquarters, Allied Powers in Europe, Jan. 5 (AP) — Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway said today a Soviet attack in the next 12 or 18 months would inflict grievous blows on the west, "but I don't believe we would be defeated."

Nevertheless, the SHAPE commander told a news conference the progress of the western military buildup is "far from satisfactory in view of the accepted estimates of the enemy's capabilities." He added:

"SHAPE's mission remains unchanged—to defend all our peoples and all our land. It's this problem * * * viewed against the background of the potential enemy's capabilities today that gives such urgency to insure solution if that dread issue should be forced upon us."

Ridgway said SHAPE has another major mission in backing up the west in diplomatic discussions.

"In the fight NATO is making for peace by peaceful means, it is of vital importance that our political authorities shall have their voices in negotiations between the east and west backed up by the only force which potential aggressors recognize," he said.

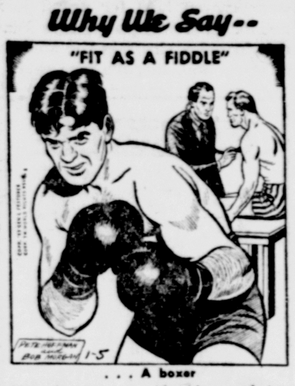
Why We Say--

"FIT AS A FIDDLE"



. . . A boxer

There has been considerable speculation about the origin of this old expression. It appears that the original expression was "As fit as a fiddler." Oddly enough, boxers at one time were called fiddlers and their physical fitness was checked before each fight.

Churchill Says

at a table in front of a mural showing a nymph reclining on white clouds surrounded by winged cherubs.

As the new conference opened, he shielded his eyes from blinding flashbulbs, and muttered, "I can't see anything."

He took a few puffs on his cigar, laid it aside, and began:

"I hope you've had a good year. We haven't had a bad one. The general state of health on the other side of the ocean is at least as good as it was last year."

Flanking Churchill were Financier Bernard Baruch, at whose home the Prime Minister will be a guest while in New York, and Sir Roger Makins, the new British ambassador to the United States, who accompanied Churchill from England.

Declines to Comment

The prime minister declined to comment on whether he thought a personal meeting of himself with Soviet Premier Stalin would contribute anything to easing world tensions.

"I thought you would ask me something about that," he said. "I really have nothing to say. If I had, I know you would feel that this is not the right place to say it."

Stalin said recently in a statement to the New York Times that he was agreeable to a meeting with Eisenhower, and British spokesmen have indicated the possibility of such a meeting would be discussed by Eisenhower and Churchill.

Questioned about British atomic developments, Churchill remarked that the United States had not stuck to the promise made by the late President Roosevelt to exchange with Britain the "fullest information" about the atomic bomb.

"We want to be a useful partner," Churchill said. "We don't want to do anything that would not be of common benefit."

Praises Truman

Churchill had high praise for President Truman, who he said has "headed a memorable period in American history."

"He has taken great and valiant decisions, which have made us all feel better," Churchill said.

The prime minister said he had been unhappy to see the intense clashes between American political leaders during the election campaign—and to see "all our old friends flung against each other."

"You do go in for this sort of thing very thoroughly, you know," he remarked.

Churchill, after a stay of a few days in New York, will go to Washington to pay his respects to President Truman, then will go on to Jamaica for a two weeks vacation.

Churchill appeared pale as he sat before the packed room of reporters, his eyes blinking against occasional flares of camera flash bulbs.

'Nothing Extraordinary'

He said there was "nothing extraordinary" in his meeting—probably tomorrow—with Eisenhower. He said he had met Eisenhower perhaps 100 times during World War II.

"And even though this may be our 101st meeting," he said, "it doesn't follow that anything should go wrong any more than at any of the previous meetings."

Concerning Korea, Churchill said, "nobody like a prolonged stalemate, but there are worse things than a stalemate—there is a checkmate—we know how you feel about the immense contributions you have made in Korea—Dozen times more than all the rest of us put together.

"But you must not look at Korea only for what is happening there—but at the fact that Soviet aggression has been resolutely and fully confronted." He said, * * * this has done more to improve the chance of world peace than anything else."

Churchill sidestepped a question about the possibility of an economic blockade of China, reportedly under consideration by Eisenhower.

Dead Man's Room

the Labor Progressive party and agent here for a New York magazine, identified as the American Greek Tribune. They said the only known relative was a brother in New York, but did not know his name or address.

Capt. Louis Champagne, head of the Montreal anti-subversive squad, said Royal Canadian Mounted Police have been advised of the seizure of material and will be present when it is checked. Notes found in the man's suit contained references to Klaus Fuchs, now serving a 14-year-old sentence for betraying atomic secrets to Russia while employed on nuclear research in Britain. Police added that most of the written notes were illegible.

Police said papers were found which attested to Stathapoulos' membership in the Communist party.

members of the group "all knew they were part of a revolutionary organization."

Weyl, who has told his story to a congressional committee, was asked in the present interview:

"Do you feel there are many people, possibly some liberals, in this country who still feel that Hiss is innocent?"

"I think today very few," Weyl replied. "I think however that the conclusion they finally and reluctantly reached about Hiss's guilt isn't going to prevent them from defending the next person who falls into the same situation. I am not referring to ordinary Communists or spies but to those Communists who have the gift of appearing to the general public as champions of liberalism."

To the question—"Do you know of any Communist in the administration?" Weyl replied:

"If there are any today, I don't know about them. If I did, I would give their names to the FBI."

24 Are Summoned For Jury Duty

On the civil calendar for the January trial term of Supreme Court, which was convened today by Justice Kenneth MacAffer, are 512 cases on the regular calendar and again at this term a "military" calendar has appeared. On the "military" calendar are eight additional cases. These are cases in which some party concerned is in military service and not available.

A trial and grand jury is in attendance. On the Grand jury summoned for duty are:

Henry Battenfeld, Hurley; Frederick C. Baumgarten, Marbletown; Margaret Braddon, Woodstock; Ralph H. Bradford, Ulster; Harvey Chase Hurley; Eli J. DePuy, Marbletown; Ralph F. Dewey, Rosendale; Doris Friedman, Kingston; Rowena P. Haviland, Lloyd; Edna B. Jansen, Marbletown; Robert Kelder, Kingston city; Eugene Maier, Hurley; Frank D. Markle, Marbletown; Gershom Mount, Plattekill; Frederick C. Osterhoudt, New Paltz; George Reitmeir, Olive; Lawrence J. Ryan, Hurley; Frank Smith, Wawarsing; James D. Spencer, Saugerties; Stanley Steen, Marbletown; Max Stern, Wawarsing; Harold Taylor, Esopus; Kenneth Till, Saugerties; John Tillson, Marbletown.

Committee

war should be "developing more actively," there is a possibility that Eisenhower might add to the military budget rather than cut it. He predicted overall economies and said he thinks Eisenhower intends to "Pare XXX all along the line."

Rep. Halleck of Indiana, House GOP floor leader, said he puts balancing of the budget as the first goal of the new Congress.

He told television interviewers (NBC, Meet the Press) that after federal spending is cut the lawmakers will then know how far they can lower taxes without putting the government back in the red. There never was a Truman budget, he added, which did not have room for a substantial cut.

No Action, Is Guess

Bridges said that "unles something more developed" he guessed the new Senate would take no action on a report questioning whether Sen. McCarthy (R.-Wis.) used for his own purposes funds donated to help his campaign against what McCarthy calls widespread Communist in government.

Sen. Welker (R.-Idaho), terming "outlandish" the report by a Democratic-controlled elections subcommittee of the last Senate, said he will ask that it be rejected. Welker is a member of the rules committee which will consider it next.

Most of this week in Congress will be spent on the difficult and somewhat touchy task of assigning senators and House members to committees—the groups where much of the actual business of writing the nation's laws is done.

Concerned Over Ideas

In the Senate, GOP leaders are concerned over proposals to reshuffle present assignments so that key posts will go to Republicans with good records of party loyalty. Also under consideration is a proposal to increase the size of a few more desirable committees.

A super-committee is working out Republican committee assignments in the House. With 221 members, Republicans have 285 committee seats at their disposal. In parceling them out they are expected to follow the time-honored seniority rule.

Democrats, in the minority, are faced with the problem of distributing their reduced committee holdings.

A skirmish over the Senate's rules on curbing filibusters probably will be settled tomorrow or the next day. A group of 19 senators wants to change the rules to make it easier to limit debate, but their proposal is headed for defeat unles there is a sudden change of sentiment.

Debate on the proposed new rule, under which 49 rather than the present 64 votes would be needed to shut off filibusters, is due tomorrow. Sen. Taft of Ohio, the new GOP floor leader, has indicated he will move to kill it after a reasonable discussion—perhaps a couple hours on each side.

Maid Says

The courtroom was ordered cleared for five minutes until she could regain her composure.

Her attorney, Lt. Col. Howard S. Levie of New York, gave her smelling salts.

Mrs. Smith shuddered when a wicked-looking hunting knife was introduced. Her eyes filled with tears when a 17-year-old boy, son of a major and friend of the Smith family, testified. He said he heard Mrs. Smith tell her husband, two weeks before the slaying, "some day I'm going to kill you."

The maid testified she found the hunting knife and gave it to Mrs. Smith two days before Colonel Smith was stabbed.

Miss Tani, a cool and composed witness, said Smith, 45-year-old chief of the Plans and Operations Division of the Logistics Section of U. S. Far East headquarters, told her he had been stabbed by his wife.

Just before the trial recessed for the day, the maid testified Mrs. Smith drank heavily.

Crew Is Cleared

New York, Jan. 5 (AP)—The liner Queen Mary's 1,253 crew members were cleared for shore leave by immigration officials when the ship arrived here today. Russell H. Danielson, immigation inspector, made the trip from Europe aboard the liner to question the crew under requirements of the controversial McCarran-Walter Act aimed at keeping subversives from landing.

that Haywood has "indicated that some sense can be brought into this picture and that meetings can now be held."

Up until that time, TWU President Michael J. Quill had said he would boycott any city hall meetings. Quill was holding out for an apology from the mayor for a declaration that the TWU and the eight companies were making a "squeeze play" to get higher fares.

The struck lines are in Manhattan, the Bronx, Queens and the lower part of suburban Westchester county.

The TWU has directed its members employed in the city-owned subway-elevated-bus trolley transit system not to work overtime in any move to step up service on the municipal lines during the strike.

Promises CIO Support

Haywood promised the TWU strikers the support of the CIO at yesterday's mass meeting, attended by 5,000 men.

The meeting, backing Quill, rejected the settlement proposal made by Impellitteri on television Saturday night.

The mayor proposed that the men go on a 40-hour week March 1, with increases of 18 to 20 cents an hour in basic wages. The union seeks a cut in the 44-to-48 hour week to 40 hours. In addition to the hours reduction — with no cut in take-home pay— the union seeks a pay increase of 25 cents an hour. Current pay ranges from $1.66 to 1.73½ an hour.

The companies contend they cannot meet the union's demands without a fare increase or tax concessions. Bus fares are mostly all 10 cents. The city administration has banned any fare hike, but has indicated willingness to grant tax concessions to the private companies.

Asked whether he looks for a filibuster against the Hawaii measure at this session, Knowland replied:

"I would hope not. We assume the bill will be discussed on its merits and that we will be able the bring it to a vote."

Knowland said the Hawaii measure will be introduced by Sen. Cordon as chief sponsor.

and said that this money would go into a special strike fund.

Besides the offer to work, the union leaders said there would be no picketing of piers, with a few exceptions, unless there were some indications that unauthorized personnel were weighing and sampling bulk cargo.

ILA members involved in the strike normally handle such bulk cargo as sugar, beans and hides. They check its weight at the pier during loading, and sample items to make sure they are up to standard. Miami Gets Low Mercury Readings

Miami, Fla., Jan. 5 (AP)—Many suburban dwellers around Miami scraped frost and ice off car windshields before driving to work today.

Temperatures plummeted to the low 30s in suburban and rural areas away from Biscayne Bay. At Homestead, 30 miles south of Miami and the heart of an important winter vegetable growing area, the thermometer dipped to 29.

Miami proper the lowest reading was 51, but it grew steadily colder as distance from warm bay waters increased. The condition was described by weather bureau forecasters as a "radiation cold," in which the ground gave up its warmth and the still, cold air lay motionless over it.

No Crop Damage Seen

Despite low readings and frost pockets nearly everywhere away from the water, there were no reports of ice forming.

Farmers in the rich winter farming area south of Miami burned smudge fires to stir up the still air. So heavy was smoke from the fires that in places it hung over highways like a fog, causing traffic to move at a snail's pace.

Dr. J. O. Wolfenberger, director of the subtropical experimental station near homestead, said no material crop damage will result despite the brief dip to dangerous temperatures. The very low temperatures lasted only a short time just before dawn.

Elsewhere in Florida the thermometer was higher than in the southeastern section. Jacksonville had a low of 40, Tampa 44, Cross City 31, Tallahassee 32, Daytona Beach 38 and West Palm Beach 40.

Two Saugerties Men Fined After Accident

Two Saugerties men were arrested after the automobile in which they were riding ran off Route 9W at Barclay Heights about 7 p. m., state police of the Kingston station reported.

Arraigned before Justice of the Peace Glenford Myers of Saugerties Sunday, Richard Krom, 36, of North Bridge street, pleaded guilty to a charge of reckless driving and was fined $25. Joseph Eschman, 52, of Valley street, pleaded guilty to a charge of public intoxication and was fined $10.

Troopers reported the automobile knocked over a sign and damaged a lawn belonging to Arthur Schoen. No personal injuries were reported.

Birthplace of Icebergs

Icebergs never are seen in the heart of the Arctic Ocean. Most of them are "born" along the western coast of Greenland and are found in nearby waters.

Train Sweeps Man Off Platform to His Death

Police tentatively identified the victim as Peter W. Johnson, about 57, of Unionville, an Erie conductor.

Witnesses said he was standing near the edge of the platform and apparently was sucked against the train as it sped past. Police said there was a possibility that his clothing might have been snagged by the train.

Pennsy Turnpike Crash Results in Death to Three

Somerset, Pa., Jan. 5 (AP)—The worst auto wreck of the New Year on the Pennsylvania Turnpike yesterday killed three persons, one a 21-year old marine lieutenant who returned last month from Korea.

State police identified two of the victims as Meyer Zientz, 41, of Clinton, Ind., and Marine Lt. John Devereux of Akron, O. The third victim was identified tentatively as Robert W. Boyd, about 40, of (47 Cleveland avenue) Yonkers, N. Y.

Investigating officers first reported the third victim as Robert W. Brown of Pittsburgh. Later they said they had found Brown's address in the pockets of the man believed now to be Boyd. Brown, a steamfitter, said he had recently given his address to Boyd, also a steamfitter.

Roadway Was Dangerous

Police said the three men were killed as Zientiz's car skidded across the dividing strip and was hit broadside by Lt. Devereux' auto. The man identified as Boyd was believed travelling with Zientz.

The four-lane superhighway which spans Pennsylvania was in exceptionally dangerous condition because of ice and snow. At one time nearly 1,000 autos were backed up in both directions near the entrance to the Laurel Hill tunnel. Extra police directed traffic at a snail's pace until the roadway could be cindered.

Robert Peebles, manager of WKNY, as radio chairman; Miss Peggy Roach, schools; Mrs. Rose Hogan, Mother's March on Polio; Dick McCarthy and Mike Marchuk, annual Parade of Bands show; Meyer Kaplan, coin collections; and Irwin J. Thomas, publicity. The post of ball chairman will be announced within a day or two, Jones pointed out.

Meanwhile, both Jones and Attorney William Kelly, who is serving as chairman of the Ulster County Chapter Infantile Paralysis, renewed their pleas to residents of Kingston and the county for their all-out support of the 1953 campaign.

Half Stays in County

"We simply cannot let a single patient suffer for lack of funds," Jones and Kelly said. "We as part of the National Foundation must help to raise enough money to care for 58,000 who were stricken in 1952 and prior years and still need our help.

"Half of all money contributed to the March of Dimes is used by our county chapter to help pay cost of treating local polio patients or, in emergencies, polio patients elsewhere. The other 50 per cent finances March of Dimes research, professional education and epidemic aid programs," they said.

This year's drive opened January 2 and will continue through Jan. 31 when the annual polio ball will be held to help raise funds.

Miami Gets Low Mercury Readings

Miami, Fla., Jan. 5 (AP)—Many suburban dwellers around Miami scraped frost and ice off car windshields before driving to work today.

Temperatures plummeted to the low 30s in suburban and rural areas away from Biscayne Bay. At Homestead, 30 miles south of Miami and the heart of an important winter vegetable growing area, the thermometer dipped to 29.

Miami proper the lowest reading was 51, but it grew steadily colder as distance from warm bay waters increased. The condition was described by weather bureau forecasters as a "radiation cold," in which the ground gave up its warmth and the still, cold air lay motionless over it.

No Crop Damage Seen

Despite low readings and frost pockets nearly everywhere away from the water, there were no reports of ice forming.

Farmers in the rich winter farming area south of Miami burned smudge fires to stir up the still air. So heavy was smoke from the fires that in places it hung over highways like a fog, causing traffic to move at a snail's pace.

Dr. J. O. Wolfenberger, director of the subtropical experimental station near homestead, said no material crop damage will result despite the brief dip to dangerous temperatures. The very low temperatures lasted only a short time just before dawn.

Elsewhere in Florida the thermometer was higher than in the southeastern section. Jacksonville had a low of 40, Tampa 44, Cross City 31, Tallahassee 32, Daytona Beach 38 and West Palm Beach 40.

Two Saugerties Men Fined After Accident

Two Saugerties men were arrested after the automobile in which they were riding ran off Route 9W at Barclay Heights about 7 p. m., state police of the Kingston station reported.

Arraigned before Justice of the Peace Glenford Myers of Saugerties Sunday, Richard Krom, 36, of North Bridge street, pleaded guilty to a charge of reckless driving and was fined $25. Joseph Eschman, 52, of Valley street, pleaded guilty to a charge of public intoxication and was fined $10.

Troopers reported the automobile knocked over a sign and damaged a lawn belonging to Arthur Schoen. No personal injuries were reported.

Birthplace of Icebergs

Icebergs never are seen in the heart of the Arctic Ocean. Most of them are "born" along the western coast of Greenland and are found in nearby waters.

Train Sweeps Man Off Platform to His Death

Police tentatively identified the victim as Peter W. Johnson, about 57, of Unionville, an Erie conductor.

Witnesses said he was standing near the edge of the platform and apparently was sucked against the train as it sped past. Police said there was a possibility that his clothing might have been snagged by the train.

Pennsy Turnpike Crash Results in Death to Three

Somerset, Pa., Jan. 5 (AP)—The worst auto wreck of the New Year on the Pennsylvania Turnpike yesterday killed three persons, one a 21-year old marine lieutenant who returned last month from Korea.

State police identified two of the victims as Meyer Zientz, 41, of Clinton, Ind., and Marine Lt. John Devereux of Akron, O. The third victim was identified tentatively as Robert W. Boyd, about 40, of (47 Cleveland avenue) Yonkers, N. Y.

Investigating officers first reported the third victim as Robert W. Brown of Pittsburgh. Later they said they had found Brown's address in the pockets of the man believed now to be Boyd. Brown, a steamfitter, said he had recently given his address to Boyd, also a steamfitter.

Roadway Was Dangerous

Police said the three men were killed as Zientiz's car skidded across the dividing strip and was hit broadside by Lt. Devereux' auto. The man identified as Boyd was believed travelling with Zientz.

The four-lane superhighway which spans Pennsylvania was in exceptionally dangerous condition because of ice and snow. At one time nearly 1,000 autos were backed up in both directions near the entrance to the Laurel Hill tunnel. Extra police directed traffic at a snail's pace until the roadway could be cindered.

Edelmuth Named City Leader for March of Dimes
